HISTORY OF THE SOCIETY

VERY REV. WLODIMIR LEDOCHOWSKI, S.J. PRESENT GENERAL OF THE SOCIETY

1940

LIKE so many heroes today, Ignatius Loyola was a soldier. Like them he performed his deeds of valor, and with them he dreamed his glorious conquests. Unlike them, however, he earned his glory for all time; his dreams which were to fill the books of history became victories recorded in the Book of Life.

It was in the year 1521, after the Battle of Pamplona, while he was proudly nursing his broken right shin, that this swashbuckling son of Don Belran Yanez de Onez y Loyola, this would-be conqueror of the world, became Inigo, the ruler of his soul. In that hour, through the writings of a Carthusian monk, he met Christ and the Saints. For the first time in his life he saw the ruthlessness, the cheapness, the evanescence of earthly glory. Ignatius saw and he was determined. He would unite this Babylonian world under a new standard which did not impose conditions of peace, but actually created peace. He would remind men of their rational nature and their mystical union with God. His Spiritual Exercises would show men that they could not pride themselves on hatred of their enemies, and still quench their thirst for peace.

To accomplish these reformations, Ignatius needed an army of followers that was mobile, disciplined, and devoted. It is hardly possible to dwell on his early difficulties. Among these was the necessity of further education if he were to become the leader which he now felt he ought to be. But it is pleasant to recall that his eleven years of schooling, begun when he was thirty-three, ended happily. In 1534, he received his master's degree and his formal education was over. He had won the devotion of two brilliant professors of Philosophy, Francis Xavier and Peter Faber, from the University of Paris; two Doctors of Theology, Laynez and Salmeron, from the University of Alcala; Professor Bobadilla from the University of Valladolid, and Simon Rodriguez from Portugal. On the Feast of the Assumption in that same year, this group of like-minded men met at the Chapel of St. Denis at Montmarte. Here they pronounced their vows of Poverty, Chastity, and Apostolic Labours. In 1537, the third vow of Apostolic Labours was replaced by one of obedience. It was all for the "Greater Glory of God."

Whither this motto would lead them, to what it would make them devote themselves, at first these Ignatians scarcely knew, nor did they seem greatly to care. They had caught the gleam of Christ's standard, and they vowed away their own wills that they might be prepared to undergo any labor or sacrifice for its greater advancement.

The group developed rapidly and well; by September of 1540, it had attracted so many followers, and had achieved such notable success that Pope Paul III approved of its constitutions in the Bull, "Regimini Militantis Ecclesia" and the Society of Jesus was fully formed.

A few months before this formal approval, the first major test of obedience was gloriously passed by Francis Xavier. At a moment's notice, without the slightest hesitation, he answered his Superior's order to carry the light of truth to the Far East. On March 16, 1540, Francis left Rome to devote the remaining twelve years of his life to the study of Oriental languages and religions, to the composition of grammars and the translations of the Gospels, to the conversion of hundreds of thousands and the consoling of feverish brows that had never throbbed in unison with a Head crowned with thorns.

Xavier was but the first of these new heroes of Christ. While his letters were proclaiming the victories of Christ in the Indies, his brethren were achieving like success as missionaries and Papal envoys in Vienna, Salamanca, Scotland, Ireland and wherever else the Greater Glory of God needed them. completely by the heresies of Luther and the scandalous lives of the clergy: Ignatius immediately established the German College for the training of German youths to go back as clerical missionaries to their own land. At the same time, he sent some of his best men to Ingolstadt to establish German universities that would rival the Protestant institutions. Among these Jesuits whom he sent was one of the most brilliant young scholars in Europe, Peter Canisius. The success of Peter's mission and the wonderful works accomplished by him seem almost in credible. A rather incomplete bibliography of the Society devotes thirty-eight quarto pages to a list of the works published by Canisius. He was not only a prolific writer but he was Papal Theologian, Catechizer of Children, Confessor to the Queen, Priest of the poor, Founder of Universities, and Apostle of Germany.

Hundreds of gold-lettered pages might tell of Ignatius' efforts to make his followers masters of themselves and of the world about them. The Spiritual Exercises, the Constitutions of the Society, the letters to his novices and to his veterans, could be read, but it would always be the same indifference to "health or sickness, wealth or poverty, honour or dishonour, long life or short" as long as it was for their Creator's greater glory. It would always be the song of the Suscipe - "Take, O Lord, and receive all my liberty; my memory, my understanding, and my whole will. Thou hast given me all that I have and all that I possess; I restore it all to Thee and surrender it, that Thou mayest dispose of it according to Thy will. Give me only Thy love and Thy grace, and I am rich enough and desire nothing more."

This complete surrender to God was the only love-prayer Ignatius knew. He taught it to his spiritual children and knew that they would teach it to all nations. He had given them the key to happiness in this life as well as the next, and now he was content to die. It was the last day of July, 1556.

The correctness of Ignatius' principles was soon proven by two of his disciples; Bellarmine, the great Doctor of Theology, and Berchmans, humble observer of the Constitutions.

Bellarmine, of whom Pope Clement VIII said "The Church of God has no equal in his learning," was the meeting point of most of the theological reasoning that went before him, and the starting point of most modern systems. In his day, scholars on both sides quoted Bellarmine, and lectured for or against him. Yet Robert Bellarmine seems to have been unaware of anything but the Ignatian principles. With the same simple demeanor, with the same simple manner, he would address the Pope, the severest adversaries, the students in his classroom. All of his ambitions and great gifts were used not for himself but for others. He himself tells us that he read "almost all the Fathers, and many scholastic Doctors, the Councils or at least their compendium, and almost the whole of the Corpus of Canon Law" that he might have something to give to his students, and not simply that he might become learned in himself. At the very end, this "star of the first magnitude in the heaven of the Church," as Pope Pius XI called him, is found asking to be buried at the feet of Aloysius Gonzaga, the young Jesuit Scholastic whose Spiritual Father he once was.

A month before Bellarmine's death, another admirer of Aloysius Gonzaga lay dying at the Jesuit Scholasticate in Rome. Unlike the great Cardinal, John Berchmans was neither a prodigy nor a giant of mighty learning who could not be hidden. His life was dull, his years uneventful. He died before he had done anything out of the ordinary. His name seemed to have had no particular claim to immortality. Yet, because it could be unmistakably attested that he had broken no single rule deliberately, nor disobeyed any regulation of his Superiors, the Church has placed him among the heroes of the Society and the saints of the Church. John Berchmans was the incarnation of the Jesuit rule. He made the complete sacrifice of the Suscipe; he lived for the Greater Glory of God.

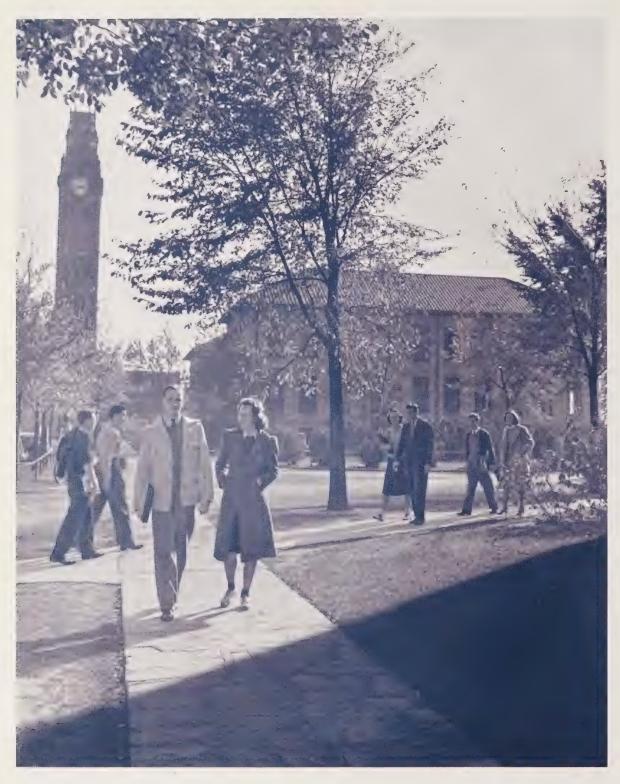

In contrast to John Berchman's life, Isaac Jogues' was a series of dramatic episodes. Jogues was the first Catholic priest to reach Manhattan Island and probably the first white man to reach the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Rescued once from a martyr's death, he was ordered back to France to regain his health. But Jogues was so permeated with the ideals of Ignatius that he returned in two years to continue his work among North American Indians. At their hands he met a cruel death — for the Greater Glory of God.

Foday, four hundred years after their Papal approbation, the principles of Ignatius are still the driving element of the Society of Jesus. Today, as in the very beginning, "Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam" is the motto of every Jesuit. The thirtieth successor of St. Ignatius, Wlodimir Ledochowski, present General of the Society of Jesus, has seen it at work in the recent Jesuit martyrs of Spain, Mexico, Russia, and Germany.

Ignatius had visioned a like unity in Christ for the whole of mankind. But his vision seems shattered by the atheistic Communists who substitute hatred for love, and the warring nations which consider the state as something ultimate to which everything else should be subordinated and directed. But his followers are not discouraged. Perhaps it will take another four hundred years to open up to the world the same vision of Justice and Charity and Love. At any rate, the Society of Jesus is trying and will ever keep trying in its educational system to make men see the right order of things — the Glory of God on which personal happiness and civilization itself depends.

UNIVERSITY

THE UNIVERSITIES OF THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY WERE THE FIRST FLOWERS OF THE RENAISSANCE IDEALS OF TRUTH AND LIGHT, AND TO THEIR MODERN COUNTERPARTS BELONGS THE TASK OF PRESERVING THAT BIRTHRIGHT AND OF PROMULGATING THOSE IDEALS.

Reflecting the Jesuit spirit of submerging the individual to the perfection of the whole, an unostentatious transfer took place at the beginning of the scholastic year when Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J., who has done an outstanding task of leading the University since 1932, handed over the rector's burden to Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J. True to the tradition of the Jesuits, one president laid down his duties and his successor quietly assumed them. The loss of so able a leader is tempered by the knowledge that an excellent record of achievement such as Fr. Cloud brings with him to the University, promises a stable and glorious future.

So with the special affection and reverence in which the University always holds its rector, the students and faculty welcome you, Fr. Cloud, extending the promise of unfailing cooperation in your work of maintaining and advancing the prestige of our University, knowing full well that their interests will always be closest to your heart.

Very Reverend Charles H. Cloud, S. J.

President

Ph. D. - Gregorian University

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Graduates:

This year's Tower, in its dedicatory words, commemorates the fourth centenary year of the Society of Jesus. In 1540, the reigning Pontiff, Paul III, formally instituted the Society as a Regular Order. It had at the time, besides its founder, St.Ignatius of Loyola, hardly more than a score of members. Today it numbers some twenty-six thousand.

History records that the Jesuits from the beginning have done notable work in many fields, not only in the most important fields of morals and religion, but also in literature and the sciences. Their schools set a standard of academic excellence for all European schools, and their students won distinction in every walk of life.

In teaching literature and the natural sciences, their purpose has always been to fortify the mind against the temptation, so common in intellectual pursuits, by which the thought of God and our obligations as rational creatures to His divine law—the basis of manhood—are forgotten or ignored by complete absorption in purely temporal aims and selfish ambitions.

Jesuit endeavor, still in force in the field of education, is to impress upon the mind the primary need of being a man, first and always, whatever else he may be in the world of science, commerce, or art. The world has always needed and it is a crying need today—in every department of human activity, men who will place God and His law in the forefront of their consciousness. If, as some prophets declare, society and civilization are threatened with disruption, it is only such men who can save them.

As graduates of the University of Detroit, you are the inheritors of a great and noble tradition. I know of no occupation or profession in which the fact that you come from a Jesuit school will not be a recommendation. In wishing you from my heart a future filled with blessings, I cannot wish for anything more calculated to make your life a success than your fidelity to the scale of values in life and conduct which the Jesuit tradition inculcates.

May 15, 1940.

ADMINISTRATION

The Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., became president of the University of Detroit in September of 1939 at the beginning of the sixty-third year of its existence.

First epoch in the history of the University was the founding of a Liberal Arts college in 1877 and its incorporation as "Detroit College" in 1881. At that time it was a small college in a small city, but the almost-proverbial dynamic Detroit advanced with Herculean strides and "Detroit College" followed in perfect rhythm. With the founding of the College of Engineering in 1911, "Detroit College" was incorporated as the "University of Detroit." One year later the School of Law was inaugurated. In 1916 the Evening division of the College of Commerce and Finance was established, in 1922 the Day division. Organization of the Graduate Division, which first awarded degrees in 1885, was completed in 1927. The School of Dentistry, completely modern, was established in 1932. Night divisions were added to the Arts and Engineering colleges in 1938.

In 1922 the Very Rev. President John P. McNichols, S.J., realized the original Jefferson Avenue Campus was no longer adequate to house facilities of a rapidly expanding university. Soon Fr. McNichols had completed negotiations for a 70 acre tract of land and in the following five years guided construction of the University buildings as they exist today. The Uptown Campus and the road which bounds it on the north, are fittingly named in his honor.

As president of the University, Fr. Cloud officially heads the three major councils responsible for its administration. The Board of Trustees, a corporate body, legally possesses all property and directs business relations as well as academic policy. Besides Fr. Cloud the Board comprises: Rev. George J. Shiple, S.J., secretary; Rev. Norbert J. Preusser, S.J., treasurer; Rev. John F. Quinn, S.J., and Rev. George L. Reno, S.J., trustees.

DEAN-DENTISTRY

Specific acts of the Board are made with cooperation and advice of the Council of Deans and Regents in academic matters, with the Administrative Council in business affairs. The Board grants the Council of Deans and Regents power to decide requirements for degrees, coordinate courses among the various colleges, and promote research and scholarly activity by students and faculty members. Members of the Council are: Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J., Executive dean and Chairman of the Council; Rev. John F. Quinn, S.J., dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Lloyd E. Fitzgerald, dean of the College of Commerce and Finance: Clement J. Freund, dean of the College of Engineering; Daniel J. Mc-Kenna, dean of the School of Law; Dr. Leo A. Cadarette, dean of the School of Dentistry; Rev. Charles E. Schrader, S.J., director of the Graduate Division; Rev. George A. Kmieck, S.J., dean of Freshmen; Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., dean of Men; Constance T. Maier, dean of Women; Rev. George J. Shiple, S.J., regent of the College of Engineering; Rev. John W. Bieri, S.J., regent of the School of Law and of both divisions of the College of Commerce and Finance; William B. O'Regan, assistant dean of the evening division of the College of Commerce and Finance; Florence E. Donohue, registrar.

WILLIAM B. O'REGAN ASSISTANT DEAN—NIGHT COMMERCE AND FINANCE

REV. GEORGE A. KMIECK, S.J. DEAN—ARTS FRESHMEN

REV. CHARLES E. SCHRADER, S.J. DIRECTOR OF GRADUATE DIVISION

REV. THOMAS D. EWING, S.J. DEAN OF MEN

To foster community support of the University and to maintain its sound financial structure are primary duties of the Administrative Council. Members of the Council, men known and respected in the world of industry and finance, are the following: Walter O. Briggs, president, Briggs Manufacturing Company; Leo M. Butzel, of Butzel, Eaman, Long, Gust, and Bills: E. F. Connely, presi dent, First of Michigan Corporation; Frank Couzens, Chairman, Wabeek State Bank of Detroit; M. E. Coyle, vice-president, General Motors Corporation; James E. Danaher, R. E. Danaher Company, William M. Dillon, vice-president, Scotten Dillon Company; Charles T. Fisher, Sr., president, Fisher and Company; Fred J. Fisher, Chairman of the Board, Fisher and Company: Leonard L. Healy, president, D. J. Healy Shops: Edward J. Hickey, director, Grosse Pointe Bank; James S. Holden, chairman of the Board, Holden and Rheaume, Inc.: Dr. William E. Keane, physician and surgeon; Peter E. Martin, vice-president, Ford Motor Company; W. Ledyard Mitchell, vice-president, Chrysler Corporation: Peter J. Monaghan, Monaghan, Crowley, Clark and Kellogg; Hon. Ernest A. O'Brien, judge, Federal Court of Michigan; Most Rev. Joseph C. Plagens, bishop of the Diocese of Marquette.

CONSTANCE T. MAIER DEAN OF WOMEN

FLORENCE E. DONOHUE REGISTRAR

REV. JOSEPH A. FOLEY, S.J. STUDENT COUNSELLOR

REV. MARSHALL L. LOCHBILER, S.J.

Nine minor committees aid the three major councils in administering details of University policy.

Infractions of University regulations are judged by the Committee on Student Discipline. The Committee endeavors to instill in the minds of students a regard for properly constituted authority. Comprising this committee are: Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., Chairman; Rev. Remi J. Bellperch, S.J., and Dean Clement J. Freund.

Guided by the ideal that a sound body facilitates the development of a sound mind, the Committee on Student Health arranges a complete physical examination for all persons entering the University. A small yearly fee entitles all students to individual medical attention at any time. Committee members are: Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., chairman; Dean Constance T. Maier, and Michael H. Butler.

The Commencement Week Committee makes all arrangements for the traditional ceremonies. George J. Higgins is chairman of the committee which is composed of Jose E. Espinosa, Thomas C. Hanson, William Kelly Joyce, and Joseph A. Luyckx.

Rev. Charles E. Schrader, S.J., is chairman of the Graduate Council. Duties of the Council are to formulate curricula for graduate students and establish requirements for degrees. Committee members are Paul P. Harbrecht, Rev. Bernard A. Hausmann, S.J., Denis R. Janisse, Rev. Burke O'Neill, S.J., Rev. Bernard J. Wuellner, S.J., Dr. Richard A. Muttkowski, Dr. Claude L. Nemzek, Rev. George J. Shiple, S.J., Dr. Henry J. Willmes, and Bernadette M. Larney, secretary.

The Admissions Committee endeavors to maintain a high academic level in the University by rigidly enforcing entrance requirements. Members are: Rev. John F. Quinn, S.J., Chairman, Florence E. Donohue, Dr. Lloyd E. Fitzgerald, Dean Clement J. Freund, and Rev. George A. Kmieck, S.J.

Rev. George A. Kmieck, S.J., heads a committee composed of Florence E. Donohue and Francis J. Donohue. Duty of this committee is the editing of the bulletins of the several colleges in the University and the Student Handbook.

The Committee on Student Publications directs the work of projecting the voice of the University in the various publications. The committee supervises the staffs of The Varsity News, university weekly, and The Tower, student annual. Rev. Marshall L. Lochbiler, S.J., is faculty moderator and committee members are: Constance T. Maier, business manager; Donald L. McLaughlin, instructor in journalism; Marvin L. Arrowsmith, director of publicity.

The functions of the Faculty Board of Student Organizations and the Athletic Board of Control are described elsewhere in The Tower.

MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH PUBLICITY DIRECTOR

STANLEY C. HAYES PLACEMENT DIRECTOR

RALPH R. JOHNSON CO-ORDINATOR

Other than the major and minor committees, there are University bureaus and departments, each entrusted with University relations.

To students planning to enter college, the Student Counsel Bureau gives important advice through Paul P. Harbrecht, director of the Bureau and acting head of the department of Physics, and Helen E. Kean, assistant director.

Activities and accomplishments of the University are given wide attention by the Publicity Department. Marvin L. Arrowsmith, director of the department, releases to city and state newspapers all University news and pictures of public interest. Sponsored by this department is "The University Looks at the News" radio series presented over Station WWJ and W8XWJ under the direction of Cyril A. Lingeman in which faculty members participate.

Frank J. Potts is director of alumni relations. Since his appointment in 1937, Mr. Potts has made strenuous efforts to continue the association of the alumnus with the University after graduation.

Dr. Everette L. Henderson heads the Cooperative Speakers Bureau. Under his direction members of the faculty address various groups both on and off the campus.

The Student Placement Bureau, under the direction of Stanley C. Hayes, renders an important service to students by securing part-time positions in business houses as well as distributing the resources of the N.Y.A.

In a year marked by an unusually comprehensive program, the Alumni Association of the University of Detroit extended its activities on various fronts. This widespread activity was especially notable in consolidating and further organizing Out-of-Town Alumni Clubs. In California, the Los Angeles Club carried on an active program with a membership of fifty alumni. Other clubs functioned in Chicago, Cleveland and Grand Rapids. The newest Club, the Thumb-of-Michigan Club, headquartered at Port Huron.

As a new, outstanding activity, Alumni Association this year co-sponsored Alumni College with the College of Arts and Sciences. Consisting of pairs of lectures delivered by faculty members on March 3, 10, 17, Alumni College was designed to broaden its members knowledge on subjects they studied at the University or which especially interested them. Large attendance, estimated at 1,000, insured success of Alumni College and its future development.

The Alumni Fund, begun last year, continued to be administered this year by members of the Board of Trustees of the Alumni Fund. The Fund, essentially the sum total of contributions and donations to the University by friends and alumni, designs to supplant income which would accrue from large capital endowment. Since the University lacks both a governmental tax subsidy and any considerable capital endowment, the Alumni Association seeks with this Fund to supply means by which the University will be able to carry on adequate educational work. Members of the Board of Trustees of the Alumni Fund are: William Henry Gallagher, A. '03, Chairman; Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J., executive dean of the University; Frank J. Potts, Fund and Alumni Director; William

With the cooperation of campus organizations, the Alumni Association sponsored the Homecoming—Dad's Day celebration November 4. The program began with tours of the campus. Members of Alpha Sigma Nu served as guides. At noon members of the Women's League and Sodality served luncheon in Gesu Hall. The Titan-Villanova football game climaxed the program. Frank J. Potts, Alumni Director, introduced fathers of football players to spectators. The Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J., greeted alumni and dads. The Homecoming Ball at the Intercollegiate Alumni Club rounded out the celebration.

For the Alumni Association-sponsored Migration, a host of Titan enthusiasts chartered a special train to accompany the football team to Pittsburgh on December 2. At the Football Testimonial Banquet held under auspices of the Alumni Association at Hotel Statler, December 14, letters and awards were distributed. Principal speaker of the evening was the Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., president of the University. M. Hubert O'Brien, A.'95, was general chairman and toastmaster.

Approximately 500 men who graduated from the College of Engineering since its organization in 1911, returned to the McNichols campus Saturday, April 6, for the university's first engineering alumni conference and traditional Slide Rule Dinner. George D. McCormick, E. '29, headed a committee of forty-five. June 2 saw some 800 Alumni fete the 1940 seniors at the Beverly Hills Golf Club under the direction of H. Russell Hastings, C.N. '22.

Peter J. Monaghan, A. '99, was president of the Alumni Association during the past year. The other officers were: Dr. John G. Slevin, A. '25, and Dr. Mary Margaret Frazer, M.S. '31, vice-presidents; L. Gordon Goodrich, C. '28, treasurer; and Frank J. Potts, A. '30, secretary.

"D AD" BLAKESLEE shows his embryo architects a few Ionic details.....
In the midst of an X-Ray experiment in the Physics laboratory.....
Charcoal sketching of classical ornament is included in architectural students' chores..... Chairs in the Dentistry clinic are lined up in battle array..... Mechanical engineers dig into the problem of "where's all that fuel going?"..... Boning in the tomes is a daily task of Law students..... Professor Buss and Pupil gaze on the remains of a late mousetrap..... General view of the Engineering laboratories, where theory and practice are made to jibe for student as well as professor.... One of the boys must have made a bright remark in this electrical lab session.

A CORNER of one of the Engineering drawing rooms, with which all of the south-end-of-campus boys are familiar. A tangled maze of test-tubes, flasks, retorts and bottles has this Chemistry student intrigued. Student Counsellor Fr. Foley in one of his many personal interviews. Mc chanical engineering students find out what makes it go when you press the button. Founder Fr. O'Neill clears up a few hazy points in his mental efficiency clinic. Though Dobbin has departed, the problem of horsepower still interests the engineers. Back in the library stacks. . . . No sacrifice is too great for this student, who gets himself experimentally "Rayed" Motor efficiency is checked with latest equipment.

The Faculty Board on Student Organizations co-ordinates class dances, fraternity social programs, extra-curricular activities, other school functions, and Women's League and Detroit Union activities. The Board also approves the honor point ratings established by Activities Honor Society.

The Board secures the opinion of students by consulting eight activity heads and four class council presidents. These twelve students comprise the Board of Student Presidents. Members for the past year were: Daniel Chieger, Engineering senior, Union president; Marjorie J. Franklin, Commerce senior, Women's League president; John F. Sullivan, Commerce senior, Varsity News editor; Richard F. Brennan, Engineering junior, Tower editor; John P. Kavanagh, Arts junior, chairman of the Sodality Council; John P. Danahey, Law, Senior Council president; David E. Meier, Commerce, Junior Council president; Howard T. Keating, Commerce, Sophomore Council president; Enos E. Carse, Night Commerce, Freshman Council president; James E. Loranger, Commerce senior, Interfraternity Council president; George W. Horn, Commerce senior, Alpha Sigma Nu president; Fred J. Foerg, Arts senior, Activities Honor Society president.

Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., Dean of Men, was chairman of the Board and Miss Constance T. Maier, Dean of Women, was secretary. Other board members were Rev. Marshall L. Lochbiler, S.J., faculty moderator of publications; Joseph A. Luyckx, assistant professor of English; Frank J. Potts, director of Alumni Relations; Stanley C. Hayes, director of Placement; Bert N. Blakeslee, director of the Architectural Engineering Department; Charles E. Dorais, director of Ath letics; and William Kelly Joyce, professor of Law.

DETROIT UNION

CHIEGER

To make all University students one in spirit, to develop the capacity for self-government, to promote enduring good-fellowship—these are the aims of the Detroit Union.

Every male student becomes a member of the Union by attending the University, and as a member, has a direct voice in electing the Union Board of Governors. The constitution provides for four major officers to be elected from the student body at large, and representatives from each college to be elected by the students of that college.

Officers during the past year were: president, Daniel Chieger, Engineering senior; vice-president, William C. Morhard, Engineering senior; secretary, John J. Fox, Commerce senior; treasurer, James M. Murphy, Arts senior.

Representatives of individual colleges were: John P. Kavanagh, Arts junior; James L. Foley and Stanley W. Siggs, Engineering juniors; Russell M. Carr, Engineering sophomore; Stanley G. Slovisky, Day Commerce senior; Joseph W. Sucher, Evening Commerce senior; Donald MacGregor, Dentistry senior; Warren T. Marchessault, Day Law senior. Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., is moderator.

In an early session the Board resolved to prepare a monthly statement of the Union's financial status. In this manner the Board hoped to keep in touch with changing conditions, foresee approaching difficulties and prevent financial losses. The first statement, which appeared December 10, showed a profit in spite of regular payments on equipment purchased in former years. Most of this profit was derived from the sale of merchandise in the two union rooms, since Union-sponsored social events are not designed primarily for financial gains.

Sporadic discussion on the advisability of selling the union house brought no definite action. The Board hoped that proceeds from the sale would be sufficient to pay off all debts and establish a substantial sinking fund for a permanent Union building. Appraisal of the property, a tentative offer of an unknown buyer and more discussion were in vain. The house is still in use as a dormitory for out-of-town students.

Initial event on the Detroit Union social calendar was the Frosh Welcome Dance, the Union's annual tribute to new students. Held September 6 at the General Motors Ballroom, the dance was a gleeful part of orientation week.

Activities of Hello Week culminated with the Hello Week dance at the Crystal Ballroom of Masonic Temple October 6. Under the chairmanship of Kavanagh, the Homecoming Bonfire of November 3 blazed a prologue to the festivities of Dad's Day.

Following the lead of several popular radio programs, the Union and the Women's League sponsored a Quiz Mixer program March 8. Co-chairmen Foley and Rosemary A. Rollins, Arts sophomore, provided a variety of entertainment and prizes. Foley and William C. Morhard assisted Joyce M. Stommel, Commerce senior, in sponsoring a roller skating party at Arena Gardens April 9.

Murphy was chairman of a Chapel Fund dance held at General Motors Ballroom April 19. The student body held a carnival at Eastwood Park, May 31. Chieger and Marjoric P. Franklin were chairmen of the affair, the year's most widely patronized social event.

WOMEN'S LEAGUE

FRANKLIN

Four officers elected from the University at large select representatives from all colleges to serve as a Board of Directors. Officers of the League this year were: Marjorie J. Franklin, Commerce senior, president; Virginia M. Gruse, Night Commerce junior, vice-president; Gertrude M. Strale, Arts junior, recording secretary; Margaret J. Pipoli, Arts senior, corresponding secretary; and Margaret A. Guinan, Arts senior, treasurer. Constance T. Maier, dean of Women, served as faculty moderator.

Members of the Board of Directors were Marie E. Colwell, Night Commerce junior; Virginia M. Compton, Commerce sophomore; Elizabeth L. Danahey, Arts sophomore; Mary Catherine Dillon, Night Arts freshman; Mary L. Duncombe, Commerce sophomore; June E. Gunther, Arts sophomore; June C. Hallagan, Arts senior; Helen P. Lambe, Arts junior; Virginia M. Leavy, Arts freshman; Maureen P. Maloney, Arts sophomore; Janet E. Martin, Commerce junior; Louise K. McCall, Commerce freshman; Rosemary F. Quinn, Arts freshman; Rosemary A. Rollins, Arts sophomore; Alta M. Toomey, Law junior; and Marie L. Young, Arts junior.

A Frosh Welcome Tea held September 25 acquainted freshmen coeds with upper classwomen. Catherine M. Langan, Arts sophomore, was in charge of arrangements. Palmer Park was the scene of a get-acquainted bicycle party held freshman week. A weinie and marshmallow roast climaxed a happy afternoon arranged by Gertrude Strale. The League sponsored a hayride at Mount Vernon Country Club October 15. M. Patricia McBrearty, Commerce sophomore, acted as chairman. Jack-o-lanterns and corn stalks were background for the coeds at the annual Hallowe'en Party in the Alumni Lounge October 26. The party was planned by Elizabeth Danahey and her committee. Madge D. Martin, Commerce senior, was chairman of the League's fall Dinner-Dance, November 16. Joe Rines' Orchestra played for members and their guests at the Book Casino. A League Luncheon feted Robert Preston and John Howard on their arrival in Detroit for the world premiere of "Disputed Passage." Genevieve T. Crowley, Arts senior, was chosen to represent Dorothy Lamour at the luncheon October 18.

The Alumni Lounge was transformed with snow, cotton-batten, holly, and the warm glow of candles for a Christmas party December 19. The party, given for the benefit of the girls of St. Vincent's Orphanage, was arranged by Helen P. Lambe. Florence S. Bakeman, Commerce sophomore, supervised decorations.

Together with the Detroit Union, the League sponsored four mixers: October 6, Catherine F. Duncan, Arts junior, chairman; November 17, Janet F. Devine, Commerce senior, chairman: March 8, Rosemary Rollins, co-chairman; April 19, Mary Duncombe, co-chairman.

The League sponsored a vocational symposium on February 25, with Virginia Gruse as chairman, and a professional on April 17, arranged by Margaret Pipoli. Leaders in specialized fields delineated careers in business and the professions. High school seniors were guests at the symposia and the teas which followed the discussions.

The Spring Dinner Dance transpired April 25 at the Book Casino. The committee in charge of arrangements was headed by Mary Ellen O'Connell, Arts junior. Mothers and daughters gathered in the Women's League Room May 12 for Mothers' Day Tea. Mary E. Avendt, Arts senior, was chairman of the committee traditionally composed of seniors.

DR. GRACE PERDUE ADDRESSES APRIL SYMPOSIUM

COEDS QUAFF COKES IN COED CORNER

THE TOWER

RRENNAN

Primary function of any student annual is to present in both story and graphic form a survey of the activities of the year which students will want to remember. Acting in the belief that students will want to remember certain features of the year more than others, the editors of the 1940 Tower have taken upon themselves the rights and duties of censor. While stories are factual in so far as every event mentioned did actually occur, they deviate from straight news reporting by highlighting the more interesting sides of the stories and occasionally neglecting to mention facts that might better be forgotten. Of the cold factualists of the student body we beg pardon and we ask them to wait until some future day to pass final decision on our actions—some future day when, perhaps, they will have occasion to use a censored story to prove their contention that "things aren't like they were when I was in college."

Selection of the spirit of the renaissance as found in the Italy of 1540 as the theme and of the four hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Jesuit order as the occasion of our dedicating the book to the Jesuits of today was a happy coincidence. A desire to show the parallel between university life of 1540 and 1940 prompted the choice of the theme, and the editors feel that if they can in some small way promote as close a parallel in life outside the university, in view of present chaos, the work will be well worth the effort.

Use of a dominant color throughout the book was continued this year. In addition to an eight-page opening section and four divisional sections of four pages each printed on heavy blue stock, titles and tailpieces printed in the same shade of blue appear on the white enameled stock of the book proper. At the beginning of each of the four major sections of the book are four-color process plates illustrating some renaissance activity similar to those mentioned in the section that follows. Choice of these full-color illustrations was made both for their inherent beauty and to give adequate expression to the gay and colorful period that was the renaissance. The art work on these plates, as in the black and white sketches opening each blue section, is original, based upon research work done by the artists and by members of the Tower staff. The color plate picturing the threefold activities of the Jesuit order, is also original with the artist. The other black and white sketches appearing on the blue stock are reproductions of famous works of art of the renaissance period, chosen for the symbolism embodied in them.

A radical change was made in the arrangement of material in the activities and athletics sections. Minor divisional pages were jettisoned in both sections. Stories in the activities sections were grouped in three general classes—purely administrative bodies, formal activities and informal activities. In the athletics section stories were arranged chronologically, a change from past policy to group them as major, minor, and intramural sports.

The scenic section in the front of the book was expanded to twelve pages and additional scenics were used to close out each of the four major sections of the book. Page layout in the faculty, senior, class group and organization pages was made distinct from page layout in the activities and athletics sections. In each section a general pattern was followed—a regularity of arrangement that aptly coincides with the classical balance and unity so typical of the renaissance.

Co-editors of the 1940 Tower were Michael J. Hand, Arts senior, and Richard F. Brennan, Engineering junior. They made final decision on all questions that arose from time to time during the year. Emmet J. Donnelly, Arts junior, filled the post of managing editor, acting as liaison officer.

John G. Carron, Arts senior, was sports editor and handled all stories connected with his section in addition to assisting in the page layout of his division. Similar duties in the activities section were performed by George E. Thomas, Arts sophomore, activities editor.

Make-up department was headed by James L. Foley, Engineering junior, make-up editor. He supervised the layout of all faculty, senior and organization pages, and cut and mounted all pictures that appear in the book. Able assistance was rendered him by assistant editors Joseph E. Gray, Engineering junior, and Robert G. Mentag, Engineering pre-junior. Detail work necessary in gathering information about graduates and organizations was under the direction of business manager Elise M. Partlan, Commerce junior.

Photographs of activities throughout the year were taken under the direction of George P. Head, Arts senior, feature editor. Working with him in this work were Robert W. Seebers, Engineering sophomore, photography editor, and John M. Gillespie, Commerce freshman, staff photographer.

The editors of the 1940 Tower wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who have so graciously assisted us in our tasks—the officers of the various organizations for their prompt attention in returning questionnaires—the heads and assistants of the various departments of the University for their cooperation in gathering information—the students who responded to a call for feature pages and scenics—members of the faculty at Loyola University, Chicago, and West Baden College, for picture material on outstanding Jesuits—and Mr. Edward J. Montville, S.J., for the history of the Jesuit order.

THE VARSITY NEWS

S TRENGTH of time-tested traditions combined with the verve of new ideas to make the twenty-third year of The Varsity News, under the editorship of John F. Sullivan, Commerce senior, one of the most successful it has known. Emphasis on better news writing, more complete coverage and more attractive display of the news helped keep the publication among the pacemakers of American college journalism and won "high honors" from national rating organizations.

Assisting Sullivan to produce a Varsity News which students read avidly each Wednesday morning were Vincent T. Steiner, Arts senior, who was managing editor during the first semester; John P. Kavanagh, Arts junior, who was relieved of news editor's duties in November; George A. Bick, Commerce junior, who succeeded Kavanagh as news editor and became managing editor during the second semester; and Charles F. Steiner, Arts sophomore, who served as assistant news editor and news editor.

Lesser but important members of the staff included Thomas F. Egan, Arts sophomore, Walter T. Murphy, Arts junior, John W. Swain, Arts sophomore, Karl H. Blaesser, Commerce junior, and Francis E. Drolshagen, Arts sophomore. All of these men served as assistant news editors. James J. Meehan, Commerce senior, and associate editor, resigned from the staff in February to accept an appointment as Flying Cadet in the United States Army.

Increased coverage, especially of the sometimes neglected Jefferson Campus activities, was a principal achievement. Collection of news from the Engineering College, Night School, and campus clubs, long a problem for harassed news editors, was facilitated by extension of news bureaus. Joseph R. Faraon, Arts sophomore, headed the Engineering Bureau; Bick and William A. Sante, Night Commerce freshman, successively headed the Jefferson Campus Bureau; and Blaesser headed the Club Bureau. Fred H. Nesbitt, Night Commerce junior, assisted Bick and Sante for part of the year.

Employing the philosophy of functionalism which has long been held by Varsity News editors, makeup continued to gain commendation this year. Events of spiritual, intellectual, and social import found proper prominence in the columns of the paper. Further use of news pictures, taken by staff photographers George P. Head, Arts senior; Robert W. Seebers, Engineering sophomore; and John M. Gillespie, Arts freshman, helped improve coverage and makeup.

Editorials continued to be limited to subjects of campus or student interest. The editorial page continued to present varied and widely appealing features, some new, some time-tested.

Always thoroughly read, if sometimes unappreciated, was "On and Off the Campus," conducted by one of the best "Herbies" in recent years. Linoleum blocks cut by Marian M. Fowler, Commerce sophomore, staff artist, ran each week on the editorial page and gave point to the week's important news. Many current issues were treated from many viewpoints in the popular "From All Sides" column. Several series of articles appeared under this head. Those dealing with Catholic Action and with student opinions on marriage problems won especial praise. Short sketches of student personalities found continued favor and were increased in number. Civic cultural activities continued to be noted in a column conducted by Rosemary A. Rau, Arts sophomore. The editorial page was also livened by frequent student contributions of essays, poems and short stories.

Dancing, dining, going, coming—campus society was reported in the column "Memo-randoms," appearing on page four, and conducted by Lois J. Duncan, Arts senior, during one semester, and by Virginia M. Compton, Commerce sophomore, during the other.

Greatest achievement, perhaps, of the sports staff was precipitating administrative action regarding the establishment of varsity baseball at the University. A "Titan Topics" column by William W. Lutz, Arts junior, in the edition of March 27 discussed the problem. The dream of many Varsity News sports editors came a little closer to realization as the "Titan Topics" of May 8 announced that Athletic Director Charles E. Dorais would petition the Athletic Board of Control for establishment of the sport.

But the sports staff, headed by Harry F. Sroka, Commerce senior, for one semester and by Lutz for the other, brought its usual accounts of sports events to its readers throughout the year and continued to promote intramural activity. Albert C. Kolch, Arts junior, was assistant sports editor.

Edition No. 1 of this year appeared September 28 and carried greetings to students from the Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., new president of the University. The second edition began promotion of a student "Dorais-for-Councilman" campaign, which was successfully terminated in his election. Edition No. 5 announced the first lecture in an All-University lecture series, realization of a campaign made by The Varsity News last year.

The following week appeared a front page editorial, "An Old Wound Closes," praising the method of selecting J-Prom committeemen evolved by the Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., chairman of the Faculty Board on Student Organizations. Significance: a 1937 editorial, "An Old Wound," advocated the system now adopted.

A six-page edition during the last week of school in December carried the Christmas greetings from the President. Edition No. 13 was a special J-Prom issue and dropped the nameplate to run a six-column picture of committeemen and their guests.

Edition No. 21 found the sports page moved back to page four, while page three was devoted to the work of the Student Counsel Bureau and the Student Placement Bureau. This edition was sent to high school students throughout the state.

After a six-year absence, the University of Detroit Law Journal again joined the ranks of University publications. With the appearance of volume three, number one, the quarterly once again became the official publication of the College of Law.

Previous to the first issue of the Law Journal, law students had edited and published a magazine known as the Law Review, which appeared from 1916 to 1931. The Law Review contained articles of legal interest, decisions of the most recent cases and briefs of those cases deemed of practical importance.

An expanding College of Law felt the need for a more extensive, more ambitious publication. Accordingly, in 1931, the Law Review saw its finis and its place filled by the Law Journal. The new publication, published in November, January, April, and June became in appearance and content one of the conventional American law reviews. Each issue contained articles by authorities recognized in their respective branches of law, reviewed several books of legal interest, gave interesting comments and notes on recent test cases and legislation. In 1933 the Journal was discontinued after the issuance of two volumes.

The newly published Law Journal, issued in November, January, March, and May, owes its existence largely to Prof. Charles P. Nugent, faculty advisor and member of the committee on professional organizations, who interested committee members in sponsoring reissuance of the publication.

The Comments department, edited by Stephen Beach, senior, deals with contemporary matters involving a legal problem, such as police power applied in parking meter ordinances. The Recent Decisions department edited by David A. Ruen, senior, discusses recent interpretations by the courts, such as one regarding a broadcasting company's liability for extemporaneous remarks by one not its agent. Other members of the Editorial Board are Albert A. Beste, Book Review editor, and Alta Mary Toomey, secretary.

John D. Danahey, editor-in-chief, heads the editorial board. Assisting him are Sigmund A. Beras and Russell E. Bine, associate editors. The remainder of the staff consists of Daniel C. Bonbright, Jeanne E. Cole, Thomas F. Donohoe, Donald J. Grant, Max E. Bolhover, Arthur F. Spindler, Ferdinand J. Chmielnicki, Arthur W. Murphy, Wilbur V. Hamm, Joseph Helms, Joseph W. Louisell, John F. Kane, Charles P. Lippert, Frank R. Longo and James S. Soltez. Charles

The November, or first issue, of the resurrected Journal published two articles which Current Legal Thought, a monthly publication similar in the legal field to Reader's Digest in the literary field, republished. This publication abstracts and digests articles, current interest comments and recent decisions, from the most important law school and commercial publications throughout the country. Since many schools are never represented in the digest, the staff of the Law Journal and the school which it represents felt real triumph in that two articles from the first issue of the resurrected Journal were deemed worthy of being reprinted in Current Legal Thought. Articles published in this first issue were: "The State Power to Tax Inheritance of Intangibles," by Edward S. Stimson, dean of the University of Toledo College of Law; "An Approach to The Study of Law," by William F. Clarke, dean of DePaul University College of Law;

Two articles entitled "Bills and Notes" and "Notice of Dishonor" written by Arthur P. Spindler, Night Law junior, appeared in the recent decision department of the January edition of the periodical. Another article in the recent decision section was "Gifts," written by Jeanne E. Cole, Day Law junior.

SPEECH

Extension of speech activities to a greater number of students than ever before became the salient objective of the 1939-40 forensic program.

Organized in March, the Philomathic Society undertook to broaden the field of speech activities by an extensive program of intramural debates, forums, round-tables, discussions and lectures. Members elected J. Brendan Flannery, Commerce junior, permanent secretary and chose Elise M. Partlan, Commerce junior, John P. Riley and Alice M. Parker, Arts freshmen, as standing committee members.

Topic for all debates during the year was, "Resolved: That the United States should maintain a strict policy of isolation toward nations involved in warfare, international or civil, outside the Western Hemisphere."

Claude U. Cole, Arts junior, with Michael J. Hand, Arts senior, and June C. Hallagan with Margaret J. Pipoli, Arts seniors, opened the debating season with non-decision debates against Cleary College November 20, at Detroit. February 14, Walter A. Roney, Commerce junior; William J. King, Arts sophomore; William G. Curott, Commerce sophomore; and Emil L. De Graeve, Commerce freshman, met Alma College at Detroit. University teams non-decisioned two schools February 23. Alfred W. Wilke; Arts freshman, and Seymour Sobole, Commerce freshman, engaged a team representing Xavier University of Cincinnati. The same afternoon Hand and Cole non-decisioned Western Ontario.

Cole and Curott journeyed to Madison, Wisconsin, for the Delta Sigma Rho provincial speech tournament held March 28 and 29. The team then crossed words with Marquette University in Milwaukee, Kent College of Law in Chicago, Loyola University, Northwestern, Rosary, Chicago, Mundelein and DePaul. Knoxville, Tennessee, beckoned the coeds for Pi Kappa Delta's Speech tourney held March 25 to 29. Margaret Pipoli and June Hallagan represented the University. J. Donald McMillan, Commerce junior; Flannery and Paul H. Toepp, Commerce junior, stumped the state during the first week of March, meeting Hillsdale, Michigan Normal, Alma, Kalamazoo, Albion, Western State Teachers, Central State Teachers and Michigan State.

Cole and Hand encountered the City College squad of New York City March 7 in the Little Theatre. No decision was rendered. Members of the Philomathic Society were invited guests at the final home debate—against a Rutgers University team, March 13.

Robert E. Christin, Commerce freshman, was adjudged winner of the 1940 Freshman Oratorical Contest on April 12 with his address on "The Power of the Press." Under the patronage of Pi Kappa Delta, the plebe contest drew into action the following first-year men: Newman A. Fuller, John P. Riley and Herchel H. Levine, Arts, and Wilkie and DeGraeve, Commerce. Hand, Pipoli, and Cole were judges for the contest.

The After-Dinner Extempore Speech Contest, under the sponsorship of the Michigan Eta Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, was won by John L. Blocher, Arts freshman, April 15. Other contestants were: Paul H. Toepp, John P. Riley, Andrew J. Jindra, Arts junior, and Edwin Zurawka, Arts freshman. Judges were: Harold M. Young, Commerce pre-junior. Margaret Pipoli, and Michael P. Kinsella, instructor in speech.

Gregory Cup finals which took place April 11 found Wilkie and Riley as the winning debaters entitled to have their names engraved on the trophy.

Finals in the Oratorical Contest brought five speakers before judges Kinsella and Rev. John A. McEvoy, S.J. Speakers were: Christin, Cole, McMillan, Alex G. Klier, Arts sophomore, and Hand. The Skinner Debate found McMillan, Cole, Hand and Riley opposing King, Rostron, Schuck and Flannery. Hand was winner in both contests.

Cole was selected to represent the University in the Michigan preliminaries for the National Peace Oratorical Contest at Albion College.

Kinsella was again director of speech activities and at the beginning of the second semester Fr. McEvoy was appointed faculty moderator.

DEBATE PLANS IN THE MAKING

CRATORICAL MEDAL FINALISTS

THE PLAYERS

A bare stage, without benefit of proscenium or backdrops, kept remaining active members of The Players engaged during the first semester in renovating and equipping their Little Theatre.

Director Michael P. Kinsella planned, and Robert P. Van Wiemeersch, Arts sophomore, constructed an all-purpose reversible screen set. The experiment proved a most successful device for the limited facilities of the tiny workshop theatre.

The Players initially offered a series of three one-acts written by Kinsella and staged in the Little Theatre the evenings of February 4, 5, and 7. In "The Bandit Father," a drama of the old southwest, Marvin M. Levey, Commerce freshman, gave a finished performance in the title role. John P. Riley, Arts freshman; Herschel H. Levine and Irving B. Siden, Arts sophomores; and Howard H. Lorenz, Engineering junior, gave good accounts of themselves. "Foiled by an Alphabet," based on old-time melodrama, lampooned the numerous governmental alphabetical agencies. The cast comprised Paul H. Toepp, Commerce junior, as nasty villain; Pauline L. Olde, Arts freshman, as endangered heroine; A. Russell Muszynski, Commerce freshman, as noble hero; Caesar C. Buckley as doting father. This comedy was the first Players' production to go off campus when it was presented before the Knights of Equity in April. It was staged again in May before high school seniors on the Speakers Bureau programs.

Second semester membership tryouts, held February 21, added eighteen names to The Players' roster, making a total of forty. Rev. John P. McEvoy, S.J., was introduced to the Players, and director Kinsella announced Father McEvoy would be faculty moderator for the group.

At a meeting March 6, second semester apprentices were initiated and a special election was held to fill vacated offices. Players elected Toepp treasurer to succeed Frank J. McInnis, Engineering senior, and June C. Hallagan, Arts senior, member at large of the Executive Board. Other officers were: A. John Hofweber, Engineering senior, president; Margaret J. Pipoli, Arts senior, vice-president; Mary B. Lund, Arts junior, secretary; Mary E. Avendt, Arts senior, historian; and Victor J. Targonski, Law senior, and Guido Ferrara, Engineering senior, members at large of the Executive Board.

"Taming of the Shrew" was the premiere offering of The Players' spring series of productions presented May 5, 6, and 7. For Shakespeare's classic, by far the most ambitious Little Theater production for some seasons past. Director Kinsella chose the Globe Theater streamlined version. The cast included June Hyer as Katherine; John F. Kunter, Commerce freshman, and Robert E. Christin, Commerce freshman, alternating as Petruchio; Vernon Rothrock as Baptista; Andrew J. Jindra, Arts junior, as Grumio; and Riley as Hortensio.

Second production was a love fantasy entitled "It Could Happen Anywhere," directed by Mrs. Michael P. Kinsella. The cast was Toepp, Anyone; Levey, Love; Charlotte Heringer, Commerce sophomore, Someone; Blocher, The One. "The Winner," directed by Blocher, was the third play. Levey's production, "Always Tomorrow" completed the evening of one acts.

The Little Theater season closed officially with The Players Banquet on May 27 at Northwood Inn. Retiring President Hofweber presided.

THE SODALITY

SMITH

BIERI

A frozen asset began to be liquid October 11 when Sodalists unanimously ratified a constitution calling for a central governing body chosen by ultra-democratic election-processes. 1938–39 councilmen drafted the document for the McNichols campus. It was the first public constitution in campus Sodality history.

The Constitution vests all legislative power in a council elected at large. Formerly there were four Sodalities on the McNichol's campus: Co-eds, Engineering, Arts and Sciences, and Commerce and Finance. Each unit was autonomous, linked to other Sodalities only through a common moderator. Proponents of Sodality unity argued chiefly that such an arrangement was unwieldly, that one supreme governing body would promote efficient organization.

The Sodality of Our Lady pioneered as the first organization in any American college to make use of proxy-revision proportional-representation as outlined by Rev. Edward Dowling, S.J., political expert of The Queen's Work, national Sodality publication. Sodalists elect a council with member's voting strength directly proportional to votes received in election. Ballots permit voters to express preferences which decided successful candidates. Further, Sodalists constantly control their councilman's actions by means of proxy slips attached to ballots to transfer votes to another councilman. Proponents of the constitution maintained these election processes combined to guarantee Sodality voters almost mathematically accurate representation, elimination of wasted ballots, and absolute power to determine how his councilman shall cast his vote.

In the premiere Sodality proxy-revision proportional-representation election October 24, Thomas F. Egan, Arts sophomore, led elected council-men with seventeen proxies. Tied for second were John P. Kavanagh, Arts junior, and Charles C. Weber, Night Arts sophomore, fifteen votes each; Rosemary A. Rollins, Arts sophomore, thirteen; Frank J. Chayka, Engineering junior, ten; Mary R. Hand, Arts sophomore, nine; James W. Guinan, Arts sophomore, seven; June Gunther,

Arts sophomore, and Leo Dietrich, Engineering senior, six each; Henry Malover, Night Arts freshman, five; Emmet J. Donnelly, Arts junior, four.

Much Sodality attention went to perfecting Sodality organization.

Sodality councilmen did not enact the constitution by actually abolishing divisions along college and co-ed lines until November 3. By the margin of Rosemary Rollins' proxies, councilmen accepted a resolution proposed by Donnelly to implement the infant constitution by abolishing Co-ed, Engineering, Arts and Night Sodalities as such. Two weeks later, November 17, the council re-appointed standing committees as follows: Kayanagh, public relations: Egan, group activity; Rosemary Rollins, program.

Seventy-six candidates became official members of the Sodality of Our Lady at formal induction ceremonies Sunday morning, February 18, in University of Detroit High School Chapel. Sodalists breakfasted at the high school cafeteria, where Rev. George A. Kmieck, S.J., dean of Freshmen, and Constance T. Maier, dean of Women, addressed veteran and recruit Sodalists.

February election returns showed Egan again led the field with sixteen proxies. Rosemary Rollins was second with thirteen proxies; Chayka and Stella R. Kona, Night Arts freshmen, ten each; Kavanagh and June Gunther, seven each; Mary Hand, six; Charles F. Steiner, Arts sophomore, six; William J. King, Arts sophomore, four. Helen Reckinger later resigned because of illness. A recount with her name excluded, inserted Frank E. Drolshagen, Arts sophomore, in the vacancy. The new council created the position of council clerk for Horace S. Hayward, Arts freshman. Both councils elected Kavanagh chairman.

Over 400 students attended the first Jamboree, given in October to introduce the Sodality to freshmen. To introduce the Sodality to the Night Arts, Sodalists held a mixer November 29 in the uptown Union Room. Dancing from 9 to 12 was followed by refreshments. Forty Sodalists took All Saints day off to relax in Grosse Ile wilds. December 8, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, Sodalists staged a second outing at the same site. Mass, breakfast, football, hike, sup-feast and songfest were the programs. Orphans at Saint Francis home entertained over twenty Sodalists from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday afternoon, December 24. Sodalists sponsored a second Union Room party to acquaint night school students with those in the day school, January 10. A second large-scale Jamboree with Gesu parish hall as locale and music by nickelodeon danced the first semester to a fitting close January 31. Dancing from 8 to 12 accompanied refreshments. Horace Hayward was chairman.

Late in April, as foundation of a drive to stimulate students to realize the true value of daily Mass and reception of the Sacrament, the Mass Study Club devised and tabulated a quiz.

The Night Commerce and Law Sodalities continued an extensive program of weekly meetings and Communion breakfasts. Rev. Hugh F. Smith, S.J., succeeded Rev. Charles J. Wideman, S.J., as moderator of the Sodality on McNichols Campus. Rev. John W. Bieri, S.J., was moderator of Sodalities on the Jefferson Avenue Campus.

Sigmund A. Beras, senior, was prefect of the Day Law Sodality and William F. McLinden for the Night Commerce group.

THE BAND

DWYER

BREDEAU

A twelve-year record of steady growth and improvement commends the University's seventy-piece band for its past work and especially for accomplishments of the present year.

Furnishing music at the football games is the principal activity of the band. To the accompaniment of school songs and martial airs the band marches in intricate formations at half-time and during the game sits in the student section to provide musical interludes.

Other activities included a party for band members September 28, given by William H. Caswell, alumnus, at his home.

In addition the band accompanied students and alumni on their annual migration, which, this year went to Pittsburgh for the Detroit-Duquesne football game. December 2.

January 11, Band-Director Phillip Wolff was feted at a testimonial dinner attended by most of the campus leaders in celebration of his eleventh year of service with the band. The dinner was held at the Campus Coffee Shop. Frank J. Potts presided as toastmaster.

Joseph Bredeau completed his first year as drill master of the band; and it was due to his efforts that the band displayed such excellent marching form and executed the many trick maneuvers which earned much favorable comment.

Attired in white Sam Brown belts, white spats, military coats, and black trousers with white stripes down the side, the uniform adopted two years ago, the band presented a picture of sartorial perfection. Top coats were equipped with reversible capes lined in red and white. Considerable credit should be given to Walter T. Murphy and James J. Mechan who, as managers of the band, maintained a high standard of efficiency and to Thomas H. Billingslea, Arts senior, who completed his fourth year of service as personnel director.

Activities Honor Society was founded in 1928 in the belief that formal training alone cannot produce a complete education or develop a balanced personality but that experience and confidence gained beyond the classroom are essential additions to the work of teachers. Campus activities test a student's initiative, exercise his ability for leadership, and make him a more capable undergraduate. On this basis the Society purposes to reward students who participate in extracurricular activities. The Society accepts students who have a C average and the required number of admission points. All applications are approved by the Faculty Board on Student Organizations.

Under a new rating system, council members of the reorganized Sodality of Our Lady received three points; president and secretary received five and four points respectively. Chairman of the J-Prom earned three points and each committee head two points. Members of The Players received two points for participation in each production. Society editor and staff artist of The Varsity News each earned seven points, and circulation department members five points.

At the society's request, composer Arthur T. Granfield relinquished all rights to his school song, "Varsity," favorite of former students. Clarification of copyright status permitted its return as University alma mater song.

Officers for the year were: President, Fred J. Foerg; Vice-president, Michael J. Hand; Secretary, Margaret J. Pipoli; Treasurer, Vincent T. Steiner; all Arts seniors. Other members were: Richard A. Coleman. Day Law junior; Edwin G. Edwards, Night Commerce senior; Donald J. Grant, Day Law senior; June C. Hallagan, Arts senior; August J. Hofweber, Engineering senior; Francis J. McInnis, Engineering senior; Justin C. Redoutey, Night Commerce senior; Carus B. Schmidt and Harry F. Sroka, Commerce seniors; Jeannette A. Spolansky, Law senior; and Victor J. Targonski, Night Law senior.

ALPHA SIGMA NU

Juniors, outstanding for service and loyalty to the University and for scholastic ability are awarded membership in Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit honorary fraternity. Each year the president of the University appoints a maximum of fifteen initiates, two from each college and three from the University at large.

Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., chose the following from the class of 1941: John A. Hanley and Edmund J. Jones, Arts; Richard F. Brennan and Frank T. Lewand, Engineering; David E. Meier, Commerce; Darral F. Burton and James E. LaFevre, Night Commerce: James S. Soltesz, Day Law: John E. Dwyer and Henry J. Herpel, Dentistry; Perry E. Brunk, Dentistry, and George L. Jennings, Engineering, at large.

Alpha Sigma Nu sponsored two lectures in Detroit Institute of Arts Auditorium. At the first, November 16, Dr. Francis A. Arlinghaus, assistant professor of history, analyzed the background of the present war crisis. Title of his address was: "Europe—Confederation or Chaos." Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J., national Sodality director, spoke April 18 on "Catholics and Anti-Semitism."

Members for the past year were: President, George W. Horn, Commerce senior; vice-president, Peter J. Meshkoff, Engineering senior; secretary, Edward J. Kuzinski, Night Commerce junior; treasurer, John W. Siler; John D. Danahey, and Leo J. LaPorte, Day Law seniors; Joseph J. Kay and Richard A. Coleman, Day Law freshman and junior; Fred J. Foerg, Michael J. Hand, and Arthur E. Schultz, Arts seniors; A. John Hofweber and John T. Karpus, Engineering seniors; Carus B. Schmidt and John F. Sullivan, Day Commerce seniors; Robert J. Temple, Night Commerce pre-senior; Donald A. Thill, Dentistry senior.

Members in the faculty were: Rev. John F. Quinn, S.J., moderator; Dean Clement J. Freund, Michael P. Kinsella, and Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J.

MEME

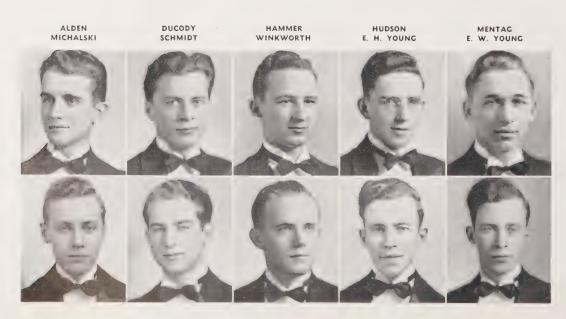

Zeta chapter of Sigma Rho Tau, national honorary engineering speech society, was organized at University of Detroit in 1937. Purpose of the society is to insure a closer bond of understanding between engineers and the general public through development of speech activities among colleges of architecture, engineering, and technology. To be accepted in the society, students must be candidates for two semesters and show proficiency and diligence in chapter speech activities.

Officers of the past year were: President, Richard F. Brennan, junior; vice-president, Edward G. Rosella, pre-junior; secretary, James L. Foley, junior; treasurer, Francis A. Neal, junior. Other members were: Thomas M. Hudson, and Walter C. Michalski, juniors, E. Harold Young, pre-junior. Initiates of 1940 were: John W. Winkworth, junior; Herbert W. Alden, sophomore; Michael M. Ducody, Robert C. Hammer, Robert G. Mentag, Francis A. Neal, Edward G. Rosella, Carl H. Schmidt, E. William Young, Ernest Y. Takitani, pre-juniors. Members in the faculty are: William P. Godfrey, assistant professor of English, faculty moderator; Rev. George A. Shiple, S.J., regent of Engineering; and Clement J. Freund, dean of Engineering.

The chapter participated in eight intra-society debates, two each with University of Michigan, University of Toledo, Wayne University, and Detroit Institute of Technology. Debate question for the first semester was: "Resolved: That the seventeen-year period of patent protection should be shortened"; for the second semester: "Resolved: That large eastern railroads should employ Deisel locomotives on passenger trains."

One hundred and thirty-five society delegates met in Detroit, May 18, for Sigma Rho Tau's eleventh annual national convention. E. Harold Young was chairman of the arrangements committee.

Tau Phi, honorary engineering fraternity, was founded in 1933 at the University of Detroit. Its purpose is to confer distinction on junior and senior Engineers outstanding in their respective classes. In accordance with the constitution candidates are rated by faculty members of the College of Engineering. The list of eligible candidates is taken from the quarter of the Senior class and the eighth of the Junior class highest in scholastic standing.

Candidates who are accepted must have an honor point ratio equivalent to "B" average or better, must display practical engineering knowledge, promise success as engineers, and show loyalty and service to the University through extra-curricular activity. Active members of the fraternity choose new members from this list of candidates.

Initiation was held January 25, 1940, in the Engineering Lounge. Juniors accepted were George L. Jennings, Gerald J. Lubin, and Frank T. Lewand. Seniors initiated were Guido T. Ferrara, John H. Nuber, Stanley B. Pachla, and Michael C. Stellman.

Officers of the organization for the past year were Peter J. Meshkoff, president; John T. Karpus, vice-president; John V. Vanden Bossche, secretary; Joseph G. Wolber, treasurer; Conrad F. Orloff, warden; John C. Price, guard; and A. John Hofweber, guide. All are Engineering seniors.

Members in the faculty are Professor Thomas C. Hanson, faculty moderator; Dean Clement J. Freund; Professors Bert N. Blakeslee and George J. Higgins; and Mr. Edward J. Abfalter, Instructor.

Tau Phi annually honors the highest ranking students of the freshman and sophomore classes. For the scholastic year 1938-39, George P. Chojnacki received the freshman award, an Engineering Handbook, and Thomas A. Lehr won the sophomore award, a Slide Rule.

JUNIOR PROM

MADICAN

HANLEY

University of Detroit's 1940 J-Prom made history. For the first time in the twenty-five years of Junior Class dances, the Faculty Board on Student Organizations appointed a woman student to the J-Prom committee. Thus did the school year's outstanding social event, held at Graystone Ballroom January 19, bow to Detroit's increased coed enrollment. Selected to represent women students was Mary B. Lund, Arts.

The Faculty Board employed a new system in committee selection. Whereas in former years, the Faculty Board rotated the chairmanship among the colleges, this year the board appointed the chairman at large on the basis of scholarship and service to the University.

The Faculty Board selected the chairman from a list of eligible students suggested by the Junior Class Council. The chairman then met with the moderator Thomas B. Hanson and assistant moderator Dr. Bernard F. Landuyt and Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., chairman of the Board on Student Organizations, to determine the committee personnel. This list was then submitted to the Faculty Board for approval.

The Faculty Board created the office of vice-chairman to co-ordinate committee activity on the Jefferson Avenue campus and on the McNichols campus. Since the Faculty Board picked the chairman and vice-chairman at large, the number of committeemen was enlarged to fourteen. Previous committees were limited to twelve.

Two nationally known bands furnished music and blew into oblivion the tradition of having the alternate band from Detroit. Number one orchestra was Charlie Barnet, adjudged by a nation-wide poll the fourth band in popularity two weeks prior to the Prom. His reputation for sweet-swing was enthusiastically seconded by Prom dancers who demanded many encores. Hailed as "king of the Saxophone," Barnet regaled his audience with the song his band popularized, "Cherokee." Barnet brought to the J-Prom the same unit he saxophoned to success at New York's Famous Door and Paramount Theater and booked solidly on a sensational road tour. Equally well-received were the soft melodies of Stan Wood's popular society orchestra from New York City.

A proposal by the publicity committee to have a special University of Detroit Waltz introduced by a famous studio provoked a fierce controversy on the relative merits of "sweet and smooth" versus "swing and hot." Conducted by the Varsity News, a campus wide poll showed a preference for the slower brand of music. As a result the newly designed waltz was presented at the intermission time by professional dancers from Arthur Murray Studios. But to cater to the minority who were "strictly swing," the orchestra devoted many sets to really "beating it out."

As favors women guests received gold compacts bearing on the cover a picture of the University Tower silhouetted against a deep-blue background. Red and white color-schemed the programs.

General chairman was Raymond K. Madigan, Night Commerce. His guest was Florence O'Rourke. John A. Hanley, Arts, assisted Madigan as vice-chairman, with Jeanne S. Colby as his guest. Committee members and their guests were Walter A. Roney, Commerce, Ruth M. Brown; David E. Meier, Commerce, Marguerite Youngs; John M. Cantwell, Night Commerce, Mary Halpin; Stanley S. Siggs, Engineering, Mary Louise Stout; Delbert J. Bradley, Dentistry, Mrs. Bradley; Mary B. Lund, Arts, August J. Hofweber; Ferdinand J. Chmielnicki, Day Law, Arlene Kelly; William H. Taylor, Engineering, Dorothy M. Holm; Henry J. Herpel, Dentistry, Betty Payne; William F. McLinden, Night Commerce, Mary Alice O'Connor; Walter T. Murphy, Arts, Gertrude Strale; Arthur F. Spindler, Night Law junior, Helen Fitzgerald.

· Final decision on selecting favors, ballroom and orchestras, was made by the group as a whole, following recommendations by subcommittees.

ADDISON

SENIOR BALL

Summer evening, ideal layout, delicious dinner, melodious rhythms, and a prevailing spirit of gay farewell combined to make the 1940 Senior Ball a perfect climax to the social season. Coming on June 3, between baccalaureate and commencement, the Ball was the final student activity of the graduating class.

Selection of the proven popular Detroit Golf Club met with enthusiastic approval. Situated in the proximity of the campus, the Club proved to be an ideal location for the party. It boasts of a comfortable dining room, famous for its excellent cuisine, a spacious dance floor, a commodious lounge and cool verandas. Because of the beauty and taste in which the clubhouse is furnished, the committee decided not to attempt decorations.

The melodies of Tommy Marvin's orchestra, who had played at several other University functions, found favor with seniors and their guests. Marvin's outfit possessed a versatility of style and a selection of artists that enabled it to present all forms of the dance in familiar fashion.

A limited attendance ruling, successful in past years, was again in effect to prevent overcrowding. Sale of tickets was not made public, but was restricted to seniors and senior-invited guests.

A PERFECT JUNE NIGHT FOR THE 1939 SENIOR BALL

Chairman for the Ball was again selected by and from the membership list of the Senior Council, composed of officers of the various colleges in the University. Emerson J. Addison, Arts vice-president, was unanimous choice for this position. Remainder of the committee, which functioned as a committee of the whole in arranging for the Ball, was selected by Addison and subjected to approval of the Faculty Board in Control of Student Organizations. Representatives from each of the colleges were chosen to serve. They were: Robert A. Dietrich, Day Commerce president; Thomas E. Donohoe, Day Law vice-president; Martin A. Glynn, Dentistry president; June C. Hallagan, Arts secretary; Robert J. Rucci, Night Commerce president; Victor J. Targonski, Night Law treasurer; and John V. Vanden Bossche, Engineering treasurer.

Joseph A. Luyckx, assistant professor of English, with several years' experience as faculty moderator of the Ball, again served in that position.

M. Agnes Hewitt, Commerce senior, was guest of the chairman at the Ball. Included in the list of guests invited by the committee were Prof. and Mrs. Luyckx, Prof. and Mrs. Thomas C. Hanson, Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., dean of men, Constance T. Maier, dean of women, and Frank J. Potts, Alumni Director.

SOPH SNOWBALL

Sophomores imported Mal Hallett's double rhythm from the East to furnish tone and tunes for the Sophomore Snowball, December 1. Hallett came to Detroit after a series of personal appearances and extended engagements before record throngs.

For this major social effort of the class of '42, a jolly snowman presided over about six hundred couples in the Masonic Temple's Fountain Ballroom. He made his appearance as a sparkling silver silhouette and, recalling Sisyphus, bent his efforts to rolling a large snowball.

To make the Snowball more dance and less crowd, co-chairmen Donald J. Ternes, Engineering, and Rosemary A. Rau, Arts, introduced a new method of ticket control. Janet H. Crawford, Commerce, and Royal F. Kelly, Engineering, designed decorations of pier lights in the University's Red and White. Red and White balloons showering on dancing couples heralded midnight. Robert W. Scott, Arts, and D. Francis Stella, Night Commerce, selected programs with brilliant red covers framing a silver snowman engraved with the University seal. Other committees were: Michael J. Brennan, Arts, and Richard T. Johnson, Engineering, orchestra; Alice M. Barton, Night Commerce, and Albert A. Beste, Law, reception; Howard T. Keating, Commerce, Lorraine V. Braun, Arts, and Walter J. Koraleski, Engineering, publicity; and dance treasurer Charles F. Steiner, Arts, assisted by Jackie N. Anhut, Charles L. Biddinger and Charles V. Collins, Night Commerce, Walter A. Bayer, Commerce, Alvin F. Ignatowski and William J. Keegan, Engineering, and Frank J. Hartge, Dentistry, tickets.

Faculty moderators were Mr. Richard J. Thompson and Mr. Clyde P. Craine.

FROLICSOME FROSH FROLICKERS

FROSH FROLIC

Students, their guests and the public Frosh Frolic-ed March 29. Herbie Kay played "danceable" music while dancers in Masonic Temple's Fountain Ballroom plashed against and purled around each, finally ebbed into foyers and subsided in rippling laughter farewells. Highpoint of this watercolor of waltz was a Kay quartet's rollicking rendition of "The Man That Comes Around."

On the theory that a class dance should not feature a "type" band but rather one pleasing the majority of students, the committee contracted Kay's danceable band rather than a radical swing band. Kay came to Detroit directly from an extended engagement at Hotel Cleveland's Bronze Room. In the past year he conducted his orchestra through engagements at Cocoanut Grove, Chicago's Edgewater Beach Hotel and Atlanta's Ansley House.

No motif and no decorations-theme was what the committee hoped would give their party a smile from Terpsichore and a new niche in class dance annals. To achieve economy as well as sincerity in art and to bare Maestro Kay's drawing power, Frolic chairman Jack D. Wilson and committee aides put up no applied decorations.

All freshmen class officers were committee members under the chairmanship of Wilson, Arts. John C. Schwartz, Arts, headed the orchestra committee composed of Rosemary F. Quinn and James P. Derum, Arts, and Jack P. Hayes, Commerce. Robert J. Affeldt, Arts, was in charge of ticket sales and was assisted by all committee members.

Frank J. Potts, director of alumni relations, was faculty moderator.

A welcome innovation was the committee's decision to reduce sharply the number of invited guests to make dancing more pleasant for ticket purchasers.

SOCIAL

OCTOBER

ORIENTATION WEEK: New students bowed into University social life at the Freshman Welcome Dance, September 13, in General Motors Ballroom. Campus activity leaders joined freshmen in dancing to the music of Tommy Marvin. Union President Daniel Chieger was chairman.

Coeds were unofficially welcomed at a bicycle party in Palmer Park, September 14. A record-breaking temperature of ninety-four degrees failed to dampen the spirits of Gertrude M. Strale, Arts junior, general chairman, or the enthusiasm of her assistants.

Upperclasswomen became official "big sisters" to freshmen coeds at a Welcome Tea, September 24, in the League Lounge. Chairwoman M. Catherine Langan, Arts sophomore, was assisted by Mary L. Duncombe, Commerce sophomore, Janet E. Martin, Commerce junior, Lenore V. Neward, Night Commerce sophomore, and Miss Strale.

SODALITY RUSH-MIXER: A rush-mixer, held October 4 in Gesu Hall, opened the year's social activities of the Sodality of Our Lady. Sponsored by the Officers' Council of the Sodality, the social had as its purpose the acquainting of new students with Sodalists and Sodality principles. Dancing to music furnished by the phonograph and the enjoying of food furnished by the Sodality highlighted the evening.

HELLO WEEK: Waiving convention during Hello Week, October 2 to 6, University students made friends without necessity of formal introductions. To climax the week's activity, League and Detroit Union sponsored a dance at the Crystal Ballroom of the Masonic Temple. Ralph Bowen's orchestra fur-

LEAGUE SPAGHETTI SUPPER: The Women's League Board sponsored a spaghetti supper on October 9 for coeds in the Evening Arts College. Held in the Alumni Lounge, the Dinner had as its aim a stronger consolidation between women students in the Day and Evening divisions on the McNichols Campus. Catherine F. Duncan, Arts junior, served as general chairman of the Dinner.

SCRIBES BALL: Lowry Clark provided his distinctive rhythms for the first major date on the social calendar—the Scribes' Ball, sponsored by Delta Pi Kappa, journalism fraternity. In flaunting disregard of superstition, the Ball held forth at Hotel Statler Friday, October 13. Ticket purchasers chose Virginia L. Andrus, Arts junior, to reign as College Belle. John P. Kavanagh, Arts junior, was chairman.

LEAGUE HAYRIDE: The League sponsored its second annual hayride at Mount Vernon Country Club October 15. Patricia McBrearty, Arts sophomore, was chairwoman. On the ticket committee were June C. Hallagan, Arts senior; Catherine F. Duncan; Jacqueline Anhut, Arts sophomore and Betty Van Atter, Arts freshman. Handling publicity were Charlotte M. Heringer and Marian M. Fowler, Commerce sophomores. As a climax hayriders suppered and danced at the club house.

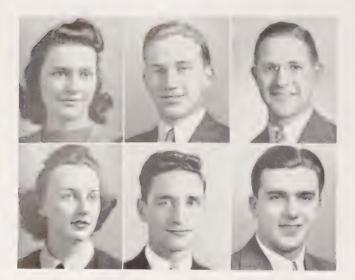

MOVIE STARS LUNCHEON: Robert Preston and John Howard, Hollywood leading men, in Detroit for the world premiere of "Disputed Passage," autographed menus and gravely listened to coed cooing at a League-sponsored luncheon, October 18. Genevieve T. Crowley, Arts senior, was selected from a group of coeds to represent Dorothy Lamour, feminine star of the picture, who was unable to attend the luncheon. Miss Crowley and League President Marjorie J. Franklin, Commerce senior, greeted Preston and Howard when they arrived on the campus and escorted them to the U-T Gardens, site of the event.

NIGHT SCHOOL CONVOCATION: The Night School Council and the Detroit Union sponsored a Night School Convocation for Evening Commerce students and faculty in the Jefferson Avenue gymnasium, October 18. Dancing, movies, refreshments, short addresses featured the meeting at which new students met faculty members and upperclassmen.

TOWER CLUB DANCE: A Tower Club dance, intended primarily for out of town Club students, was held October 20 in the Union Room. Chairman Ernest Y. Takitani, Engineering junior, presided over an evening's activities featured by dancing to the tunes of record music and the partaking of a light lunch.

COED HALLOWEEN PARTY: Coeds revelled in Alumni Lounge October 26, when they sponsored a Halloween party through the Women's League. Betty L. Danahey, Arts sophomore, chairman of the affair, was assisted by Betty Ann Greening, Arts sophomore, who took charge of the food committee; Jacqueline N. Anhut, decorations; Rosemary L. Rollins and June E. Gunther, Arts sophomores, entertainment.

NOVEMBER DECEMBER JANUARY

HOMECOMING: As students hovered as close as they could come to the Freshman Bonfire, football players and coaches inaugurated Homecoming festivities, November 3. Next day alumni met students and dads at the traditional Dads Day luncheon at Gesu Hall; afterwards they viewed a hard-fought contest between the Titans and Villanova's Wild Cats. Senior football players were entertained at the Alumni Ball that evening. Guests danced to Carl Harger's music at the Intercollegiate Alumni Club. Alumnus Dr. John G. Slevin, Homecoming Chairman, received assistance from student chairman Daniel Chieger, bonfire chairman John P. Kavanagh, Arts junior; and luncheon chairman Betty M. Herzog, Arts sophomore.

FOOTBALL FROLIC: A shower of handbills fell from Larry Zygmunt's plane "Zyg's Zag" to publicize the Football Frolic, sponsored by Phi Gamma Nu and Delta Sigma Pi. Tommy Marvin provided music for the dance held November 10 at Hotel Statler. Co-chairmen Joseph Bauser, Night Commerce junior, and Dorothy V. Rhodes, Commerce junior, awarded a football autographed by Titan football players and by Patricia Donnelly, Miss America of 1939. As a decorative scheme, University of Detroit's banner was surrounded by those of other colleges and fraternal organizations.

LEAGUE FALL DINNER DANCE: Rhythm by Joe Rines' orchestra and the rollicking merriment of Sophie Tucker made the League's Fall Dinner Dance on November 16 an outstanding success. Added attractions were the Book Casino's soothing atmosphere and famous cuisine. Madge D. Martin, Commerce senior, was chairman.

UNION THANKSGIVING DANCE: Thankful to be able to dance to the music of Hal Berdun's orchestra instead of marching to the beat of soldiers' drums, students danced the evening away in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Statler, November 17. Berdun featured novelty entertainment by a mixed quartet, the "Four Rays"; his Musical Knights gave tunes appropriate for the hunting of undaunted stags. Co-chairmen John J. Fox, Detroit Union secretary, and Janet F. Devine, Commerce seniors, attributed the success of the dance to the popularity of the orchestra and the pre-Thanksgiving Day holiday spirit.

FALL LAW BANQUET: Law Professor William Kelly Joyce served as master of ceremonies at the Fall Law Banquet held at the Intercollegiate Alumni Club, November 18. Under the auspices of the Faculty-Student Council, the semi-annual banquet encourages social and professional relationships among students of Day and Night divisions of the School. Max E. Bolhover, Night Law senior, was chairman. Guests included the President of the University, Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., Rev. John W. Bieri, Regent of the Law School; Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, Dean of Men; Daniel J. McKenna, dean of the Law School.

NIGHT COMMERCE DANCE: First open dance ever sponsored by students of the Night Commerce College was held in the Jefferson Campus gymnasium November 18. Held under the direction of James A. Humphreys, junior, the dance was the result of prolonged agitation for social activity in the evening division. Music-by-the-box and refreshments marked the evening.

ODONTO BALL: Exchanging probes and pliers for batons and silverware, University's embryo dentists gathered for their Odonto Ball, November 22. Amid decorations in the Thanksgiving motif, students and alumni of the School of Dentistry dined and danced at the Intercollegiate Alumni Club. Red carnations and white gardenias were presented to gentlemen and their ladies as they entered the Ball Room. A string ensemble directed by Bill Conway strummed a melodic background and later provided popular dance music. Dance artist Patricia Needham entertained with interpretations of waltz, tango, and rhumba. Martin A. Glynn, senior, was chairman. Faculty members attending were: Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J., executive dean of the university, and Dr. Leo J. Cadarette, dean of the School of Dentistry.

SODALITY MIXER: A Sodality-sponsored mixer for students in Night Arts and Engineering was held in the Union Room November 29. Purpose of the gathering was to introduce evening school students to the Sodality and to Sodalists. Dancing and the serving of refreshments made up the evening. Norbert A. Gurney, Night Arts freshman, served as chairman.

LEAGUE SPAGHETTI DINNER: Pursuing its policy of acquainting all coeds with each other the Women's League tendered a second Spaghetti Dinner December 8 for coeds in the Night Commerce college. The event was the first of its kind ever held on the Jefferson Campus. Marge M. Franklin, Commerce senior, and League president, presided over festivities, site of which was the Commerce Reading Room in Dinan Hall. Guests were Rev. John W. Bieri, S.J., regent and William B. O'Regan, assistant dean, respectively, of the Night Commerce college.

FOOTBALL BANQUET: The Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., making his first public appearance as University president, was principal speaker at the Titans' twenty-fifth Football Banquet, held December 14. The banquet consumed time and food in Hotel Statler's English Room. Director of Athletics Charles E. Dorais presented varsity letters to 1939 winners and commented on the season. More than seven hundred students, alumni and friends of the team heard the first official announcement that Casimere B. Brovarney, Commerce junior, had been elected to captain the 1940 team, and that players had voted the Loyalty Award to Stanley G. Slovisky, Commerce senior. Other program speakers were Line Coach Arthur B. Boeringer; Graduate Manager Lloyd Brazil; Rev. George A. Shiple, S.J., faculty moderator of athletics; Emerson J. Addison, retiring captain, and the newly-elected leader.

ART CLUB FALL MUSICALE: Deans, artists and quarterbacks joined in presenting a musicale for Art Club members December 15, in the University Music Room. The musicale augmented the Club's exhibit of Japanese prints showing in the Music Room. Earl N. Swillum, Commerce junior and Titan quarterback, rendered selections on the piano. Rev. John F. Quinn, S.J., Arts dean, was piano accompanist for the solos of Stanley K. Wollenburg, Arts senior. Aloysius G. Weimer, instructor in Fine Arts, led the audience in community singing. Arts senior George P. Head, Club president, presided over festivities.

COED CHRISTMAS PARTY: The deft hand of Helen P. Lambe, Arts junior, guided the Coed Christmas party to success in the Alumni Lounge, December 18. Seventy gifts for girls of St. Vincent's Orphanage were generously contributed by coeds attending. Adding to the friendly spirit typical of coed gatherings, each guest wore a cotton "snow ball' tag. Singing carols under the brightly lighted Christmas tree lent true Yuletide atmosphere. Assisting Miss Lambe were the following: Lillian B. Brovarney, Arts junior, entertainment; ence S. Bakeman, Commerce sophomore, decorations; Gloria C. Smith, Arts freshman, Frances A. Bayne and Mabel A. Bubb, Commerce freshmen, and Elise Partlan, Commerce junior, refreshments. Gifts were taken to the orphanage on the following Thursday by a group of seven coeds.

SODALITY MIXER: Another in the series of Sodality-sponsored mixers was held January 10 in the Union Room and was attended by members of both day and evening Sodality groups. The evening of dancing and refreshments was headed by Charles C. Weber, Night Arts freshman, with the assistance of Alice C. Targett, also Night Arts freshman.

WOLFF TESTIMONIAL BANQUET: Forty students who headed activities, together with members of the Jesuit and lay faculty, attended a testimonial banquet in honor of Philip Wolff, University Band director, January 11. The event was held at the Coffee Shop. The banquet was in recognition of eleven years of personal service and devotion to the University. Wolff received a gold cigarette case and gold key with University seals engraved on each. Following the dinner William H. Caswell, prominent alumnus and attorney, presented the Caswell Loyalty Award to James M. Hafner, Engineering senior. Faculty Moderator J. Barry Dwyer, S.J., presented a memento to Wolff. Rev. George J. Shiple, S.J., representing the Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., delivered a laudatory address. Frank J. Potts, director of alumni relations, was toastmaster. Walter T. Murphy, Arts junior, was chairman.

TUYERE BALL: Tuyere, engineering social fraternity, and its guests danced the Tuyere Ball, January 26. The Crystal Ballroom of the Masonic Temple was decorated with the fraternity emblem in blue and gold, a color motif carried out in the programs. Three hundred couples swayed to the smooth rhythms of Bobby Grayson's orchestra. Martin M. Calcaterra and Guido Ferrara, Engineering seniors, were co-chairmen.

SODALITY JAMBOREE: An all-University jamboree, held in Gesu Hall January 31, closed first semester activities for the Sodality. Following close upon the heels of the Retreat, the event drew a goodly crowd. Program for the evening consisted of the popular combination of music-box dancing and refreshments. Horace S. Hayward, Arts freshman, was chairman.

FEBRUARY MARCH APRIL

MAGI BALL: Magi's twenty-third annual Ball continued the University's oldest social tradition. Over 300 dancers responded February 2 to the captivating melodies of Benny Kyte's "singing violins." Maestro Kyte, of N.B.C. network fame, brought vocalist Maureen Walker to add charm to his melodies. Decorations in maroon and gold stemmed from a Magi banner, gracing the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Statler. Arts sophomore Michael J. Brennan was chairman.

SODALITY BREAKFAST: Preceded by Mass and followed by breakfast, the Sodality held its first formal induction of the year February 18 at the University of Detroit High School. Members of the Sodality Unity Council arranged details of the event in which seventy-six candidates were enrolled as members.

TURTLE TRUDGE: Out of a field of sixty turtles, terrapins and tortoises, "Babe," owned by Engineering freshman Thomas J. Richert, emerged victor in the fifth running of the Turtle Trudge. Delta Pi Kappa, professional journalism fraternity, sponsored the Trudge, March 28 in the Chemistry Arena. The fraternity donated profit from ticket sales to the University chapel renovating and modernization fund. Co-chairmen William W. Lutz, Arts junior, and Joseph R. Faraon, Arts sophomore, leaned heavily for aid on a trium-mulierate—coeds Janet F. Devine, Commerce senior, Betty Ann Greening and Mary Lou Madden, Arts sophomores.

ALPHA SIGMA NU INITIATION: Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit honorary fraternity, formally admitted twelve new members March 28. The occasion was a buffet supper and general social meeting in the English Room of Hotel Book Cadillac. Rev. John F. Quinn, Arts dean, gave the welcoming address and presented certificates and keys to initiates. Among the speakers were Clement J. Freund, dean of Engineering, and alumni members William J. McGrail and Stanley E. Beattie. George W. Horn, Commerce senior and Joseph G. Rashid, alumnus, were co-chairmen.

uted to the success of the evening's activities. June E. Hyer, Night Arts freshman, supervised the party for the Players, assisted by Nancy E. Kennedy, Arts sophomore, chairman of the prizes committee.

SLIDE RULE DINNER: Approximately 350 students and alumni of the Engineering college attended the eighth annual Slide Rule Dinner the evening of April 6. Held in the Fisher Concourse, the banquet was the scene of the first public appearance of the newly organized University Choir. Guests joined in singing "Varsity," recently revived school song, and the "Alma Mater," composed by Arthur T. Granfield, choir director. The Hon. Charles E. Dorais, Director of Athletics and City Councilman, toastmastered. An address of welcome was delivered by the Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., president of the University. principal speaker of the evening, S. L. A. Marshall, military analyst of The Detroit News, addressed the diners on "What is Ahead in Europe." General chairman of the Dinner was Kenneth E. Smith, Engineering senior.

UNION-LEAGUE ROLLER-SKATING PARTY: Union-League sponsored skating at Arena Gardens April 9 was in charge of William C. Morhard, Engineering senior, and M. Joyce Stommel, Commerce senior. Bumps and spills added to the rollicking merriment of skaters and smooth organ music was a rare treat for swing-minded collegians. A corps of Arena Gardens attendants waltzed and promenaded about on skates under vari-colored spotlights to entertain.

TOWER CLUB MIXER: A second mixer for out of town students was held April 12 in the Union Room under the sponsorship of the Tower Club.

SIGMA RHO TAU INITIATION BANQUET

The dancing and lunching program enjoyed its customary success under the direction of Edward J. Hull, Engineering freshman.

COLONIAL PROM: Alpha Kappa Psi, professional fraternity in commerce, sponsored the Colonial Prom at Bonniebrook Country Club, April 12. Chairmen Emrik L. Kallman, senior, and Robert A. Balint, chose the music of Lee Worrell who alternated swing with sweet swing and included a medley of waltzes. Anthony T. Lapenta, Day Commerce senior, and Woodrow G. Wilson, Law freshman, received the scholarship medallions. Michael J. Hand, Arts senior, accepted the scholarship cup for Delta Pi Kappa, journalism fraternity.

COMORO BRIDGE-TEA: The combination of a bridge party, tea and fashion show proved inviting enough to lure a large number of coeds to the April 13 Comoro party held in Huyler's L'Aiglon. An assorted array of prizes, tasty tea and crumpets and models parading the latest in Vogue made up a successful afternoon. Catherine F. Duncan, Arts junior, was in charge.

CHAPEL FUND DANCE: Arts senior James M. Murphy and Commerce sophomore Mary L. Duncombe were co-chairmen of a Union-League sponsored Chapel Fund Dance at General Motors Ballroom, April 19. The ballroom, recently improved by unique lighting effects and coloroful decorations, increased the pleasure of dancing to the music of Mantz Kilgore's popular C.B.S. radio network orchestra. During an intermission Coach Lloyd Brazil, presented All-American Robert L. Calihan, Commerce senior, with the Free Press Trophy awarded annually to Michigan's outstanding cager.

HONORS AND AWARDS

The University, alumni and campus organizations present trophies, medallions, burses, key, plaques, memorials, and medals to students who have achieved the highest success in scholastic endeavor or have proved themselves outstanding in extra-curricular activity.

Highest honors in the 1939-40 Intercollegiate English Essay Contest were won by the University of Detroit. "The Jesuits" was the subject of the contest open to all Jesuit universities and colleges of the Chicago and Missouri provinces. Casimir A. Domzalski, Arts sophomore, choosing as specific phase of the general topic "The Ratio Studiorum and Modern Jesuit Education," placed fifth. "Reasons for Expulsion of the Jesuits from European Countries" was the title of the essay that gained seventh place for Albert C. Kolch, Arts junior. Thomas F. Egan, Arts sophomore, won eighth place with an essay entitled "St. Isaac Jogues, First and Foremost American Jesuit." Combined efforts of the three produced the winning total of thirteen points for the University.

John A. Hanley and Enimet J. Donnelly, Arts juniors, placed eighth and tenth respectively in the Intercollegiate Latin Contest for Jesuit universities and colleges of the Chicago and Missouri provinces.

Founded this past year in memory of the late Rev. Frederic Siedenburg, S.J., onetime regent of the School of Dentistry, the Fr. Siedenburg Award of fifty dollars is presented to the Dentistry student attaining the highest scholastic average for four years. It was merited by Donald A. Thill, senior, for 1939-40.

Magi, Arts social fraternity, awards a scholarship medal to the Arts student attaining the highest scholastic average during his freshman year. Casimir A. Domzalski with an all A average received the award. Magi also presents a Senior Key to the Arts senior obtaining the highest scholastic average for his first three years; the award was established last year to accompany the Freshman medal. Richard J. Garascia merited the key this year.

A larger trophy, given to the University, remains permanently on display in the Engineering building lobby.

The American Legion Medal is awarded by Aviation Post No. 257 to a student majoring in Aeronautical Engineering. Competitors are graded on basis of 50 percent for scholarship, 25 percent for citizenship, and 25 percent for creative ability. Kenneth Smith, Engineering senior, received the award.

The senior Engineer attaining the highest honor point ratio for five years is presented with a key by Chi Sigma Phi, professional Engineering fraternity. Francis J. Sergeys' 2,74 five year average won the award in 1939.

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers awards a Certificate of Merit to the junior chemical engineer having the highest honor point ratio for his freshman and sophomore years. Francis A. Neal, 1940 winner, received the certificate together with a handbook from the local chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineering.

The Institute of Aeronautical Sciences granted two awards new to this campus, during the past year. Kenneth Smith and David Lewis were recipients of certificates of merit for the best thesis submitted in Aeronautical Engineering. The second certificate of merit was awarded to Gerald Coleman for scholastic ability. This award is given to the senior aeronautical engineer who has maintained the highest average for his junior and senior years.

John J. Fox, Commerce senior, was adjudged winner of the two hundred and fifty dollar scholarship awarded by the American Bankers Foundation for Education in Economics to a senior majoring in economics or related subjects.

The annual scholarship to the Harvard School of Business Administration awarded by the Harvard Alumni Club of Detroit, was merited by Robert J. Rucci, Night Commerce senior. The award is made on a criterion based on the scholarship, extra-curricular activity, character and business aptitude of the recipient.

The coed senior in the Day Commerce school who maintains the highest scholastic average for the first seven semesters receives a scholarship key from Zeta chapter of Phi Gamma Nu, professional commerce sorority. Presentation was made to Madge D. Martin, at the Phi Gamma Nu Sweater-Swing May 17.

Delta Sigma Pi, professional commerce fraternity, awards a scholarship key to the Day Commerce and Night Commerce seniors obtaining the highest averages for four years of study. Alonzo P. Jacque merited the key last year with an average of 2.7 in the Day Commerce and L. Clarke Oldenburg with 2.8 in Night Commerce.

Alpha Kappa Psi awards a loving cup to the fraternity having the highest scholastic average. Delta Pi Kappa won the trophy with an average of 1.93. Alpha Kappa Psi also awarded medallions to Anthony T. Lapenta, Day Commerce, and Woodrow G. Wilson, Night Commerce, for earning the highest honor point ratios in their respective schools.

In recognition of extra-curricular activities, Night Commerce Councilmen awarded keys to five members and two non-members: Joseph W. Sucher, senior; Marie E. Colwell, Raymond K. Madigan, Charles T. Francis, John M. Cantwell, William F. McLindon, juniors; and Darral F. Burton, pre-junior.

William H. Caswell presents the William H. Caswell Award to the band member recommended for loyalty, scholastic attainment, and special contributions to the organization. James P. Hafner, Engineering junior, received the award at a testimonial dinner, January 11.

Alpha Gamma Upsilon established the Alpha Gamma Upsilon Award in 1939 to honor the outstanding achievement of the year. Lawrence F. Zygmunt, Engineering pre-junior, was 1940 winner for being elected president of the Intercollegiate Flying Club.

Stanley G. Slovisky, Day Commerce senior, was this year's winner of the Football Loyalty Award, presented by the University of Detroit Athletic Department. The Loyalty Award is offered for leadership and all-around good sportsmanship on the gridiron.

The "Scallen" Medal, donated by Judge P. Scallen, goes to the senior student who has been most successful in achieving athletic excellence while maintaining a high scholastic rating. Robert E. Filiatrault, Commerce, quarterback on the football team for three seasons, was 1938-30 winner.

Robert B. Gajda, Commerce sophomores, merited the William Kelly Joyce Golf Trophy, for defeating Robert G. Leggett, 4-2, in the finals of the trophy competition. This was the second year that the trophy was placed in competition since the University of Detroit Athletic Department established it. Competition for the Fisher Golf Trophy took place in late June.

Managers bowled themselves into first place of the Night Commerce Bowling League to win the Lynch Trophy.

At the National Intercollegiate Air Meet at Gambier, Ohio, the University of Detroit Flying Club took second place, with points compiled from a second in the bomb-dropping event and a third in the spot landing contest.

Presentation of the Detroit Free Press Trophy to Robert J. Calihan, Commerce senior, was made April 19 at the Union Chapel Fund Dance. The award is given annually to the ablest basketball player of the year in the state of Michigan.

ATHLETIC BOARD

Supervision of all athletic activities at the University of Detroit is placed in the hands of a permanent Athletic Board of Control. Specific duties of the Board are to determine eligibility rules governing student participation in the various sports sponsored by the University, to select the personnel of the coaching staff of the athletic department, to approve schedules for intercollegiate competition and to decide on matters of general policy in the administration of the athletic department.

The Board was reorganized this year and placed under the chairmanship of Rev. George J. Shiple, S.J., regent of the College of Engineering and faculty moderator of athletics. Others serving on the board are Rev. Albert H. Poetker, S.J., executive dean, and Rev. Norbert J. Preusser, S.J., treasurer of the University, members in administration; Charles E. Dorais, director of athletics, Paul P. Harbrecht, acting head of the department of physics, and William Kelly Joyce, professor of law, members in faculty; and Louis A. DeHayes, William M. Dillon and Hon. Thomas F. Maher, members in alumni. Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., president of the University, is ex officio a member of the Board.

As director of athletics, Dorais serves as business agent for the Board. Details involved in running the athletic activities at the University are administered by him, subject to the approval of the Board.

Assisting Dorais in his duties are Lloyd Brazil, graduate manager of athletics, and Michael Peters, director of minor sports. Brazil is in charge of all arrangements for major athletic events and Peters for minor events.

The addition of handball and boxing to the list of athletic activities as informal sports was the only major change made in the athletic program at the University during the past year. In sponsoring a student team, the University was one of the first in the country to explore the possibilities of handball as an intercollegiate sport.

COACHES

Evidence of the fine organization of coaches at the University of Detroit can be directly observed in the actions of the teams and their component individuals. Measured not only in the cold light of figures in the won and lost column, but also in the intangible but nevertheless evident qualities of sportsmanship and fair play, Titan athletic teams have always ranked with the best.

Charles E. Dorais is generally rated as one of the best football coaches in the business. His well-drilled Titan teams have compiled an impressive record during the fourteen years he has been head football coach and director of athletics. "Gus" has the singular ability of being able to make the most of any material, and his Red and White elevens are known for their heads-up football. Dorais became famous while playing with the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame. After graduation he served as assistant coach at his alma mater, and then moved to Gonzaga as head coach. He came to Detroit in 1926, and during his tenure here, so won the respect and admiration of his fellow-townsmen that last fall he was elected to the Common Council of the City of Detroit.

In 1928 the University had one of the greatest football aggregations, from whose ranks came all-American halfback Lloyd Brazil. Brazil has been associated with the school ever since as head basketball and assistant football coach, in addition to performing the duties of graduate manager of athletics. Titan basketball teams have gained a national reputation since then due largely to Brazil's efforts. Several outstanding backfield men on past teams also testify to Brazil's ability.

A big, burly, all-American center from Notre Dame serves as Titan line coach. Arthur E. Boeringer is a conspicuous figure at every practice session. Better known as "Bud," Boeringer is well suited to his profession. A great footballer in his day, he is constantly driving his charges with a pair of leather lined lungs that have instilled all Titan linemen with a fight and determination to give their best to the game.

Another member of that undefeated team of 1928 to return to the University of Detroit as a member of the coaching staff was Edmund J. Barbour. He is the present head of Intramural Athletics, and last fall completed his sixth year as head coach of the Freshman football team. This year Barbour was appointed Frosh basketball coach and attacking this job with the same vigor as his others, he guided his team through a successful season.

Assisting Eddie Barbour with the Freshman football team were Alex Chesney, end coach; Charles Beer, line coach; and Ed Palumbo, backfield coach, all of whom are recent graduates of the University and former football players here.

A kindly and fatherly gentleman to whom all the boys are "Son" and whom everyone calls "Dad" is Michael H. Butler, head track coach, boxing instructor and trainer for all athletic teams. Everyone who comes in contact with "Dad" is impressed by his friendly spirit and the great store of athletic knowledge which he has accumulated in years of association with boxers and trackmen. Years ago he managed fighters and in recent times has coached many running stars while at the University. "Dad" is well-known in Detroit and is an accredited Judge for boxing matches in the State of Michigan.

Fencing has taken on new importance in the Minor Sports program since Charles R. Schmitter became coach three years ago. His efforts have met with marked success and have stirred more than a passing interest among the students. Schmitter graduated from the University of Detroit in 1932 and is a former member of the fencing team himself. He also holds several State titles.

Professor William Kelly Joyce has long been associated with University of Detroit golf teams as faculty moderator and has also served as a member of the Athletic Board for several years. Two years ago Professor Joyce donated a Trophy for golfers to shoot at annually.

To Roland L. "Duke" Keifer, Titan handball coach, goes the honor of inaugurating the first intercollegiate handball meet in the country. When he is not arranging tournaments for handball, "Duke" is usually busy as the general equipment manager.

Michael Peters is the Director of Minor Sports. Mike has held this position for several years now, and is known by all for efficiency in an important job.

SERVICE WITH A SMILE BY MANAGER BOBBITT

MANAGERS AND CHEERLEADERS

Although Roland L. "Duke" Keifer has charge of all University of Detroit equipment that is distributed for the various athletic programs, he is greatly aided in his duties by several voluntary student managers. These managers are awarded special managerial "D's" in recognition of their services.

The most complicated and difficult of these student manager positions is that of keeping the football equipment in a constant and organized flow. James M. Joyce, Arts junior, was Varsity manager, while Harry E. Bobbit, Commerce junior, and Raymond J. Kelly, Commerce freshman, divided the duties of Frosh manager.

Gregory F. Halford, Commerce junior, acted as manager for the tennis team. The Titan cheers this year were led by Captain Gerald J. Marks, Engineering junior, Captain-elect Edward W. Woods, Arts junior, Edmund A. Lee and Frank A. Duwe, Arts sophomores, Beryne B. Leve, Arts freshman, Bernard E. Law, Commerce senior, Charles L. Graessle, Commerce sophomore and James D. Miller, Commerce freshman.

FOREWORD

Comes again the pleasant task of preceding the detailed chronicle of our sports activities with a word as to our reason for being and the goal we strive for.

As an extra-curricular activity the sports program plays but a small part in the all-important purpose of this great University. Our objective is principally to provide a proper out for the student's surplus energy and to fill in his leisure time profitably and pleasantly. Doing so also creates a rallying point through which Titan teams give student spirit and loyalty to school an opportunity for expression.

Play and recreation, properly directed, have an educational value that is universally acknowledged as worthwhile. Our department is happy to be able to add its bit to the splendid contribution made to this community by the University of Detroit.

We believe that our games are of value to our institution. One of the most effective onslaughts against class hatreds and the isms can be made through sports, for when men get out in open competition and play and cheer, all these are forgotten. War-torn, war-distracted countries may well look with envy to America

Our ambition for the future will be the expansion of our present program to the end that our traditional high spirit and fine morale will have more farreaching results.

In conclusion, may I again say that I am proud of the Titan coaches, the Titan athletes and this year's portrayal of the "Old Titan Spirit"; and I will leave the reporting of our joys and sorrows to the able and sympathetic hands of the Tower chroniclers.

CAPTAIN EMERSON ADDISON

Emerson J. Addison, when he was duly honored by his mates with the captaincy of the Titan football team, finally overcame an injury jinx which had trailed him through two years of Varsity competition. Emerson made this his most successful season on the playing field, and he was a constant model of sportsmanship and source of inspiration for his teammates. Emerson was seldom spectacular, but made his presence felt by player and rooter alike through a steady reliability.

CAPTAIN-ELECT CASIMERE BROVARNEY

University of Detroit footballers wanted a man who would be in the thick of the fray when the game was at its toughest point for their leader. So they chose Casimere Brovarney to lead them in 1940. "Cas" has been outstanding on the Titan football team for the last two years for just these qualities. Brovarney next year will literally lead his Titans through the opposing teams' forward walls as he springs into devastating action from his guard position.

20 CENTRAL STATE 7

"Gus" Dorais' bumper sophomore crop was to have been the attraction when the Titans met Central State College in the opening game, September 22, but most of the honors of the evening went to Al Ghesquiere, a junior halfback. Ghesquiere, whose rating as regular left halfback was believed to have been jeop ardized by several well-publicized sophomores, delivered the best ball-carrying performance of his career in helping the Titans gain a 20-7 victory over their outstate foes.

Detroit opened in high gear, scoring on a 67-yard march after Jack McDermott had brought the opening kickoff back to the thirty-three. With Ghesquiere, Tim Slovisky, and McDermott registering sizeable gains on nearly every play, Detroit swept down the field to the five-yard line. There elusive Bill Schauer, left end, went over on an end-around. Frank Hayes, only sophomore in the starting line-up, kicked the extra point.

Central State's Wisneski and McMahon threw a scare into the Titans when they began hitting the target with passes and went to the Detroit fifteen before being stopped.

Detroit scored its second touchdown midway in the third period. The drive started on the Detroit forty-one. Ghesquiere and Slovisky carried the ball to the Central State one-yard line from which point they scored. Hayes again converted for the extra point.

A poor punt from behind Detroit's goal line led to the Central State touchdown. The kick carried only to the nineteen, and on the third down Wisneski passed to Godleski for the score. The third Titan score was a bit of luck. After Groth and Slovisky had brought the ball to the seven, the latter started off tackle. At the four-yard line, the ball squirted out of his arms over the goal line where John McManigal, Detroit guard, fell on it for a touchdown.

14 WESTERN STATE 0

The Titans registered their second victory of the season when they defeated Western State Teachers College, 14 to o. The game was played at Detroit on Saturday, September 30. The setting of the game was rather unique in that, originally scheduled for a Friday night, the contest was postponed to Saturday because of a terrific rain and wind storm on Friday night.

After a quiet first quarter, the Titan offensive started to click in the second period when Jim Murphy intercepted a Bronco pass. With John McDermott and Al Ghesquiere reeling off large gains the Titans were not stopped until they reached the ten-yard marker, where a pass from Ghesquiere to Bill Schauer gave the Red and White their first score. Frank Hayes converted and Detroit led 7-0 at the half.

In the middle of the third period when the Titans were having difficulty gaining through the Teachers' formidable line, Harry Groth got in the open on an off tackle slant, and with good blocking, ran 45 yards to Bronco fifteen-yard line. However a penalty called on Detroit on that play, moved the ball back to the thirty. On the first play big Tom Martin crashed through center for 16 yards. Clyde Johnson then plunged to the six. After two running plays failed, Groth shot a short flat pass to Johnson for a touchdown. Hayes again converted and the score was 14-0. Detroit threatened twice in the closing stanza but a stubborn defense and costly fumbles repulsed them each time.

The Titan defense was the outstanding feature of this game as it held the Bronco rushing offense to a scant 35 yards and kept them in their own territory except in the opening period when the Teachers advanced to the Titan twenty-eight.

COODRICH CUTS THROUGH NORTH CAROLINA'S LINE

13 CATHOLIC U. 14

University of Detroit made its first Eastern trip of the season and lost its fifth straight game to Eastern opposition over a two-year period, when Catholic University squeezed out a 14 to 13 victory. The game was played at Washington, D. C. on October 14 before a crowd of 12,000 fans.

The first period was played on even terms with the punting of Al Ghesquiere the outstanding feature. However, there was plenty of action in the second period. Jim Murphy intercepted a Catholic U. pass behind his goal line and ran it out to the ten. On the third down, Ghesquiere's punt was blocked and the Cardinals recovered on the Titan one-yard line. Rocco Pirro plunged over for a touchdown on second down. Carmen Pirro converted, and Catholic U. led 7 to 0. The Titans came back strong and scored without losing the ball after receiving the kick-off. Detroit got to their own forty-seven with the aid of a fifteen yard holding penalty. Tim Slovisky ran to the Cardinal forty-five in two plays. Al Ghesquiere passed to Bill Schauer for 12 yards, and again to Slovisky to the Catholic U. one. Ghesquiere took the ball over, Frank Hayes missed the extra point, and the half ended 7 to 6 in favor of the Flying Cardinals.

In the third quarter Catholic U. again took advantage of a blocked punt to score. This time Johnson's attempted kick was blocked and recovered by the Cardinals on the Titan sixteen. Rocco Pirro again scored with a series of plunges. Carmen Pirro converted. Detroit received their second scoring opportunity when Harry Groth returned a punt 15 yards to Catholic's forty-five. Groth passed to John Biringer on the first play for a touchdown. Biringer took the ball on the twenty and eluded three men to cross the goal line.

21 NORTH CAROLINA STATE 6

A tight Titan defense that threw North Carolina State for a net loss of eight yards from the line of scrimmage helped to bring Detroit a 21 to 6 victory over the Wolfpack on October 21 at Detroit. In addition to completely bottling up North Carolina's offense, the Titan forward wall twice blocked Wolfpack punts and paved the way for Detroit scores.

The Red and White opened the scoring in the initial period. After straight running plays had taken the Titans to the State twenty-two-yard marker, John Biringer heaved a long pass to John McDermott, who was downed on the three-yard line. On the second play from scrimmage McDermott cracked center for the score. Frank Hayes kicked the extra point from placement.

The second quarter saw both teams cross the goal lines. After his mates gained possession of the ball by blocking a North Carolina punt, McLaughlin ran and passed his way through a series of moves that finally took the ball over the Wolfpack goal. Hayes converted for the extra point.

North Carolina followed by recovering a Detroit fumble and connecting on a long touchdown pass for their only offensive thrust of the afternoon. The try for the extra point was smothered by Titan linemen.

The blocked punt route took the Titans over for a final touchdown in the third quarter. Pavelec stepped in front of one of Wolfpack Artie Rooney's kicks and Ed Rice recovered for Detroit on the North Carolina twenty-four-yard line. A pass from McLaughlin to Howard Keating advanced the ball to the fourteen, from which point another McLaughlin pass, this time to Bill Schauer, brought a touchdown. Hayes again converted to give himself a perfect day.

16 TULSA 7

The nimble running of Tim Slovisky and the pitching arm of Harry Groth gave the Titans a 16-7 victory over Tulsa University at Tulsa October 28. It was the fourth straight win in as many starts for the Titans over Tulsa.

Detroit scored first on a safety. In the second period Meryl Toepfer, end, stopped Malcolm Strow's attempt to run from Tulsa's goal line on a fake punt.

The scoring punch came to both teams in a thrilling third period. Sophomore Jack Biringer whipped a nine-yard-pass to Slovisky on his own thirty-six. Slovisky danced his way to the side lines, then skipped down the side of the field through the Hurricane secondary for a touchdown. On the last few yards of his gallop, his mates mowed down fleet Tulsans nipping at his heels. Frank Hayes kicked the extra point from placement.

The Titans started from their thirty-four for their second touchdown march. Groth and McDermott alternated on line-smashes to get a foothold in Tulsa territory. Then Groth began flipping passes, hitting Biringer and Hayes with regularity. From Tulsa's twenty-four, Groth faded back and heaved one to Biringer on the seven, then knifed through the line to the five. On a deceptive spinner, Slovisky caught the Hurricane defense by surprise and skipped wide around the left end to cross the goal line standing up.

Roy Buffalo, Tulsa's Indian blocking back, took the kickoff on his own ten and threaded his way to his forty-six. Tulsa punched out a first down through the Detroit line, then resorted to the air. Buffalo faded back and passed to Strow in the flat and the fleet Strow went the remaining 15 yards for a touchdown. Buffalo converted from placement.

6 VILLANOVA 13

Saturday, November 4, was Homecoming Day at Dinan Field. Villanova College furnished the opposition for the Titans, and very worthily defeated the Red and White gridmen by a 13 to 6 score. It was a fine football day with a crowd of 19,000 people on hand.

The first period was played on even terms with third-down punting predominant. The second quarter, however, saw the Wildcats capitalize on every scoring opportunity to make two touchdowns and clinch the game. Midway in the stanza, Nick Basca reared back and heaved a pass from his own forty-yard line to the Titan thirty-two into the waiting arms of Bill Howlett, who outran John Biringer to the Detroit goal line. Before the Titans could settle down, the Wildcats scored again. This time Basca passed 35 yards to Joe Murray in the end zone. Thus the half ended. Villanova struck twice—swiftly and accurately.

Detroit threatened many times in the second half, but was thrown back scoreless all but once. In the fourth period John Biringer, who had been playing a marvelous game all afternoon, broke loose around end and ran 47 yards to Villanova's twenty-five-yard line. He then tossed a pass to John McDermott which was good for 15 yards, and a five-yard penalty brought the ball to the Wildcat five-yard line. Biringer cracked center for four yards, and, after McDermott was stopped, piled through for the score.

The statistics presented a slight paradox if compared with the final score, as Detroit outgained Villanova 276 to 69 yards in rushing, and 136 to 119 yards in passing. However, the Wildcats from Villanova with their sparkling back, Nick Basca, well deserved to win as they displayed an alert, smart brand of football.

13 BOSTON COLLEGE 20

Boston College brought its powerful football team to Dinan Field on November 11, and defeated the University of Detroit in a thrill-packed game by a 20 to 18 score.

After the first quarter was about half over, Boston College received the first break of the game and capitalized on it to score. Jim Murphy fumbled, and Gene Goodreault recovered on the Titan thirty-seven. Pete Cignetti plunged to the twenty in two plays. Charlie O'Rourke then tossed a pass to Vito Ananis who advanced to the five. Ananis smashed center for the touchdown. Alex Lukachik kicked the extra point. Near the end of this same period, Ghesquiere passed to Schauer, and when Henry Toczylowski deflected the ball, alert Tim Slovisky grabbed it and ran to the Eagles' twelve-yard line. Three line plays carried it to the Boston one as the quarter ended.

Mickey McLaughlin wiggled over from the one on the first play of the second stanza. Nick Pegan failed to kick the extra point. The Eagles came right back, however, and scored again when they got the ball on the Titan fourteenyard line as a result of a sliced punt by Johnny Biringer. O'Rourke passed to Goodreault in the end zone for the tally. Detroit tied the score due to a great passing and running exhibition by Harry Groth which started from the Titan forty-four-yard line and culminated with Groth plunging over from the one. Hayes converted and the score at the end of a thrilling, gruelling half was 13 to 13.

Boston College didn't get under way again until the end of the third quarter. Then, with O'Rourke, Cignetti and Montgomery running in turn, they advanced the ball from their own twenty-six to the Detroit twenty. At the beginning of the fourth quarter O'Rourke passed to Ananis in the end zone for the game-winning touchdown.

MANHATTAN GIVES MCLAUGHLIN SIDELINE TROUBLE

36 MANHATTAN 13

Detroit turned loose a powerful passing attack to end the two-game touch-down drought and trounce Manhattan 36-13 on November 18 at Detroit. Before the surprised Jasper cleven could stiffen its defense, the Titans had chalked up 23 points on a fine exhibition of passing and running by Al Ghesquiere and were never threatened.

Detroit opened the onslaught when Bill Schauer blocked a Manhattan punt and John Supulski, Jasper halfback, fell on the ball in the end zone for a safety.

First touchdown for Detroit came when Schauer ran Ghesquiere's five-yard pass 30 yards for the first score. Frank Hayes place-kicked the extra point.

A recovered fumble set the stage for the Titans' second touchdown on a pass to Hayes in the end zone, which was followed by Hayes' kick for the point after touchdown.

Ghesquiere continued to dominate the Red and White offensive play and figured prominently in the next marker. His 18-yard run and 36-yard pass to Johnny Biringer placed the ball on the six-yard line, from where McDermott cracked the center of the Manhattan line for the third Detroit touchdown.

The second quarter saw a Manhattan reversal of form as the Jaspers carried the offensive for the next two periods. Supulski spark-plugged the attack which culminated with John Spisak's plunge from the three-yard line for Manhattan's marker. Supulski continued to riddle the weak Titan pass defense and counted another touchdown on a 25-yard pass to John Sarullo.

Detroit countered with two more touchdowns in the fourth on Ghesquiere's end run of six yards and Biringer's toss for 17 yards to Tim Slovisky.

10 DUQUESNE 10

In a steady downpour which left Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, a muddy site for the Titan's fifth meeting with their traditional foc, Detroit battled Duquesne's undefeated Nightriders to a 10-10 deadlock December 2.

The Red and White took the offensive in the first quarter. Starting from their own forty-one the Titans based their offensive on Ghesquiere's passing and running down to the three-yard line where Ghesquiere plunged through center to score the first touchdown of the game. Hayes place-kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0.

A second touchdown march began when Brovarney recovered a Duquesne fumble on Duquesne's two. After Duquesne was penalized to the twenty-five-yard line, Ghesquiere brought the ball to the nine in two plays. Two plays failed to gain and Hayes dropped back to the twenty-five and kicked the field-goal that gave the Titans a 10-0 lead.

Late in the first quarter the Dukes got their powerhouse rolling. They opened the second period in Detroit territory and brought the ball from the thirty-seven to the four-yard line. The Titans held the Dukes to the three-yard line, but Duquesne regained the ball when McLaughlin's kick went out on the fourteen. In three downs the Nightriders were on the nine-yard line, and Rokisky kicked a field-goal from the twenty to make the score 10-3, Detroit.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Gonda took the ball in a spread for mation play and raced 54 yards for Duquesne's touchdown. Rokisky added the extra point to deadlock the score at 10-all.

SLOVISKY GETS EXPERT BLOCKING AGAINST NORTH CAROLINA

RESUME

The Titans, with a squad banking heavily on untried sophomores for replacements, started out the season fast, ran into difficulty in the back stretch, but fin ished strong. The two early season victories over Central State and Western State did not really test the team. In their first road tilt the Titans were shaken up by a veteran Catholic University outfit, but they came back to demoralize North Carolina State and outfight Tulsa. More difficulty was encountered in Villanova's Wildcats, a traditional jinx, and in Boston College. The Red and White rallied at the finish in time to swamp Manhattan and draw with Duquesne.

Foremost among the seniors on the squad who are sure to be missed when the Titans take the field next fall is Captain Emerson Addison, who in his three years of service has distinguished himself as a steady performer. Playing along-side Addison in the line were Bill Nienstedt, Ed Froelich and Bill Schauer, who have three major letters apiece, and Rudy Henkel, who joined the monogram list this year. Completing the list of graduates are backfield men Tim Slovisky, winner of the loyalty award, Jack McDermott, and diminutive Jimmy Murphy, all possessors of three varsity "D"s.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

Eddie Barbour's freshman football squad engaged in three intercollegiate contests last fall and emerged victorious in each, to keep unblemished an undefeated yearling record extending back to 1934.

The frosh opened the season at Dinan Field on October 28 by outpointing Western State Teachers freshmen 7 to o. Although the Teachers were by far the better team in between the thirty-yard lines, they lacked the necessary scoring punch. After a scoreless first half the Titans finally rang up a touchdown in the third period on a pass from Hank Piper to Bob Mitchell. Art Link converted.

Journeying to Ypsilanti on November 9, the Titans ran roughshod over Michigan Normal frosh and returned to Detroit with an 18 to 0 victory hanging from their belts. The Red and White jumped into an early lead on a touchdown pass from Piper to Jack Bacon. In the second period Link caught another Piper pass and placed the ball on the Huron six-yard line, from where Piper cracked center for the score. The Titans scored again over the aerial route in the third quarter on a pass from Jack Buck to Art Stavale.

The season closed in Detroit on November 21 against the yearlings of Wayne University. The Red and White spread their scores over the whole game in handily defeating their city rivals 19 to o. Honors of the day again went to Piper, who passed to Link for a touchdown in the first period and plunged over the goal line from the six-yard marker in the second quarter. The Titans' final score came as the result of a sustained drive in the fourth quarter. Emil Mennes skirted the Tartars' flank on a dash from the four-yard line for the touchdown.

Several promising-looking performers for whom "Gus" Dorais is expected to find use next fall were uncovered during the course of the season. Foremost among them was Piper, whose passing and running ability qualify him for a left halfback job in the Dorais offense. Link, at quarterback also impressed the coaches with his manner of directing the team and his blocking and tackling ability.

Capable linemen were found at every position. The end situation was adequately handled by Jack Arneberg, Bob Mitchell, Ed Garvey and Joe Gensheimer. Joe Torzewski, Bob Harrington and Bill Buettner were outstanding tackles. Bob Burke and Ray Domergue stood out at guard positions, while the pivot spot was taken care of by Frank Dombrowski and Tom Frielink.

Numeral winners were John P. Arneberg, John D. Bacon, Walter Baker, John I. Buck, William Buettner, Alfred D. Burke, Robert J. Burke, John A. Carlin, Thomas J. Carroll, Donald L. Christensen, Frank Dombrowski, Raymond E. Domergue, Donald W. Ellis, William H. Fiedler, John T. Foley, Thomas B. Frielink, Edward J. Garvey, Joseph R. Gensheimer, George J. Ghesquiere, Charles R. Gibbs, Robert C. Harrington, Frank L. Holland, Bernard S. Kanka, Arthur F. Link, Emil H. Mennes, Robert J. Mitchell, John F. Pearl, Henry E. Piper, George Rashid, Leroy T. Rozek, John F. Ruddon, Lucius F. Ryans, Arthur J. Stavale, August C. Swiercz, Joseph S. Torzewski, Robert E. Williams, and Raymond J. Kelly, student manager.

FALL INTRAMURALS

Edmund J. Barbour, freshman football and basketball mentor, was appointed in September to direct University intramural activities. The post was formerly filled by a student president. Assisting Barbour as members of the Men's Intramural Board were Charles E. Dorais, Arthur B. Boeringer, Daniel Chieger, Engineering senior, and George W. Horn, Commerce senior. A second Board, the Coed Intramural Association was formed to handle all coed sports. Officers, elected by coeds, were Virginia Partlan, president; Frances Bayne, vice-president; Mary Garey, secretary; and Ruth Brown, treasurer. Managers were likewise members of the Board.

One of Barbour's first acts was to inaugurate a system to make students actively conscious of their intramural program. Into established intramural programs Barbour instilled a vitalizing note—a Sweepstakes point system which made every tourney and meet an integral part of the entire program.

On a Sweepstakes point basis every entrant, every first, second, third, fourth and fifth place winner gained points ranging from fifty for first place down to five for fifth. A sum total of points for both individual and group competitors were reckoned at the year's end; trophies went to majority point holders, who had competed and gained first honors for the year's comprehensive program. Students were allowed to enter as many competitive sports as their abilities allowed.

A new intramural committee served in an advisory capacity. Robert N. Babbish, Commerce senior, William B. Goldsbury, Arts junior, and Jay W. Higgins, Commerce senior, made up the committee.

First event on the intramural program was the golf tourney at North Hills Country Club. The prize, the coveted William Kelley Joyce trophy, was won by Robert B. Gajda, Commerce sophomore. Of twenty contestants, sixteen qualified for match play after the first 18 holes. Gajda defeated Robert G. Leggett, 4 to 2 to capture the title. Gajda carded a 75 while Leggett needed 78 strokes during the round. Besides the tourney, driving, putting, and approach shot contests were held. Jack E. Davidson, Commerce sophomore, won the driving contest when he laced a ball 255 yards over a soggy fairway. Frank M. Schuck, Commerce junior, won the pitch shot contest, while Leggett won the putting contest when he "ratholed" eleven consecutive putts.

Thiry-two netmen competed in the tennis tournament. In the final round, Robert R. Mallory, Commerce freshman, defeated Arthur F. Link, Arts frosh, in a hotly contested match.

Touch football, the last affair on the fall activity schedule, created the most interest in the pre-winter intramurals. Approximately two hundred students mixed on the gridiron. Fifteen teams composed the two leagues. One league played its games at noon, the other at 2 o'clock.

Pooshwunkies Number One, Noon League champions, were campus intramural touch football champions as a result of their 21-0 victory over Pooshwunkies Number Two, title holder in the Two O'clock League, in the championship game November 14. Contest feature was Bill Burke's 100-yard run for a touchdown after he intercepted a Pooshwunkie No. Two pass on the Pooshwunkie No. One goal line. Burke's interception stopped a determined Pooshwunkie No. Two drive and highlighted a fast Pooshwunkie No. One offense that produced two other touchdowns. Pooshwunkies No. One earned the right to oppose No. Two by defeating the Micks 6-o in the deciding contest in the Noon League.

Punting and drop-kicking contests closed the gridiron activities. Daniel Radnovich won the punting contest with a punt of 52.1 yards. Jim Wonless dropkicked 21 out of 30 between the uprights to take the honors in that division.

CAPTAIN JACK PIANA

One of the best basketball players that the University of Detroit ever had was Captain Jack Piana. Jack received this recognition generally, even though he was strictly a team player whose main assets were swift, accurate passing and a defensive technique which was almost unsolvable. Jack's main offensive weapon was a deadly "set shot" which won many games for the Titans in last minute victory drives. A regular for three years, Jack will be sorely missed next season.

BASKETBALL SEASON

67 ASSUMPTION

40

University of Detroit opened the 1939-40 basketball season with a bang as they swamped Assumption College 67 to 40 at the Naval Armory on December 9. This marked the highest total ever accumulated by a Red and White quintet.

Although Coach Brazil allowed his regulars to play only fifteen minutes, the Titans built up a commanding 34 to 21 lead at half-time. Fourteen Detroit players took part in the scoring spree, with no one getting over nine points. Emery Alex and Joe Slovisky led the Assumption offense with twelve and ten points cach.

PURDUE 43

Purdue's basketball team took seven minutes to ring up their first score on the Titans but once on their way were unstoppable. They defeated the Titans 43 to 19 in the Purdue field house on December 13.

Detroit led by two points after seven minutes, at which point the Boiler-makers turned on an attack as furious as their defense was puzzling. While finding the basket from every conceivable angle Purdue's cagers were also able to hold Titan scoring threat Bob Calihan to two field goals. By sinking six foul shots, however, Calihan was able to share scoring honors with Purdue sophomore Mickey Tierney.

WESTERN ONTARIO 30

Detroit managed to come back strong on December 16 with a 53 to 30 victory over the University of Western Ontario at Naval Armory.

After the Red and White first string outfit had piled up a seemingly safe lead, Coach Brazil sent in his reserves. Western Ontario gradually narrowed down the Titan margin and at half-time was behind only one point, 22 to 21. The Canadians sank a field goal to take a one-point lead at the start of the second half but fell behind as returning Detroit regulars found the range once more. Bob Calihan garnered twenty-five points, to tie the single game record which he set last year.

O'DONNELL

JOHN CARROLL

34

Charlie Buchholz provided the thrills when the Titans beat John Carroll 42 to 34 at the Naval Armory on December 20. The Red and White guard gathered his largest total for a single game in his three years as a regular as he sunk eight field goals and five out of five charity tosses.

Tom Conley, John Carroll coach, singled out Bob Calihan as chief objective of a zone defense designed to stop the Titans by putting two men on the Detroit center. The defense stopped Calihan, but his mates succeeded in carrying out his scoring duties.

LORAS

37

In the first game on an extended road trip the Titans defeated a stubborn Loras College quintet 48 to 37 at Dubuque, Iowa, on December 30.

The contest was close all the way with Loras, behind 23 to 18 at the half, tying the score at 23 points early in the third quarter. Charley Buchholz then sank a long shot to give the Titans a lead that they never lost. The Duhawks of Loras clung close to the Titans' heels but faded in the closing minutes of the contest. Bob Calihan again starred for the Titans, turning in a total of twentythree points.

Travel-sore Titans were barely able to edge out a surprisingly strong St. Ambrose five, 30 to 29, at Davenport, Iowa, on December 31.

The fast St. Ambrose players literally ran the Red and White ragged as they took an intermission lead of 17 to 14. After the score had been tied seven times, a successful free throw by Captain Jack Piana in the last thirty seconds gave the Titans their margin. Missing three charity throws in the closing minutes, St. Ambrose lost an opportunity to win. Piana and Calihan stood out for Detroit.

47 NEBRASKA 46

A long range toss by Nebraska forward Don Fritz bounced off the hoop in the last fifteen seconds of play and enabled the Titans to defeat the Cornhuskers 47 to 46 on January 2 at Lincoln, Nebraska.

Baskets by Johnny Gedda and the dependable Charley Buchholz helped Detroit gain a 27 to 18 lead at half-time. Nebraska came back in the second half to gain the lead only to be tied by the Titans at 41 points. Detroit took the lead again at that point and managed to cling to a slim margin until the final whistle.

43 GRINNELL 39

Paced by Bob Calihan, who totaled twenty-six points, the Red and White defeated a fast Grinnell College quintet, 43 to 39, at Grinnell, Iowa, January 3.

CALIHAN SINKS A PIVOT SHOT AGAINST MARQUETTE

The Titans succeeded in keeping the initial advantage they gained at the outset and led the Iowans all the way to gain their fourth victory in as many road contests. Centering around Captain Jack Piana and Charley Buchholz, the Titan defense was able to keep Grinnell at bay the whole evening.

29 IOWA STATE TEACHERS 28

Detroit found Iowa State Teachers stiff competition in their game at Cedar Falls, Iowa, on January 4, and had to go into an overtime period to down the Iowans, 20 to 28.

Charlie Buchholz made himself the hero of the evening when he dropped the lone free throw of the extra period to win the game for the Titans. His feat stole some of the limelight from Frank Dulapa, who had saved the game for the Titans with a beautiful set shot which tied the score at 28 points. Bob Calihan led all scorers with eleven points.

JOHN CARROLL 25

The Red and White marked up a second victory of the season over John Carroll by a 42 to 25 count at Cleveland on January 7. Bob Calihan, who gained scoring honors for the evening with eleven goals and two free throws, again paced a fast and aggressive Titan five.

The Clevelanders were spotting the Titans a six-point advantage by the end of the first half as the Red and White led 15 to 9. The Titans were never seriously threatened from then on and gradually added to their lead, winding up the game with a comfortable seventeen-point margin.

MARQUETTE 4

When the Titans faced Marquette on January 13 at Naval Armory in the first of a two-game series they were defending an eight-game winning streak. A Hilltopper rally in the closing minutes broke the record as it sent the Titans to a 43 to 41 defeat.

The game was one of the most closely contested of the year, the score being tied at 37 points with only two minutes left. At seven other times the score was tied, and neither team ever enjoyed over a four-point lead. Titan center Bob Calihan and Marquette forward Bob MacDonald tied for high-scoring honors with thirteen points apiece.

DE PAUL 47

Next contest on the Titans' schedule was a rough game with De Paul University in Chicago on January 15, the Red and White winding up on the short end of a 47 to 37 score.

In a game whose progress was slowed down by the frequency with which the referees called fouls, De Paul pulled away to an early lead and was ahead 22 to 11 at the half. Led by forward Lou Possner, who took scoring honors with twenty points, De Paul went on from there and were never headed.

BUTLER

Butler University showed no respect for a highly touted University of Detroit five at Indianapolis on January 20, handing the Titans a 41 to 34 defeat for their third successive setback.

The Bulldogs took command of the situation right from the start and were leading 20 to 10 at the intermission. Detroit came to life momentarily in the third period and pulled to within four points of the lead before Bulldogs Bob Dietz and Lyle Neat clicked to clinch the game for Butler. The victory was Butler's first over the Titans in five years of competition.

DE PAUL 44

De Paul hung a second defeat on the Titans, 44 to 41, in a closely contested game at Naval Armory on January 27. The Blue Demons crashed into a 13 to 4 lead in the first ten minutes of play and were able to repulse repeated Titan rallies throughout the rest of the game.

Captain Jack Piana sparked the Titan offense with twelve points and helped pull his team within striking distance, but De Paul's Lou Possner again paced his mates to a victory, scoring thirteen points.

39 MICHIGAN NORMAL 3c

Ypsilanti saw the Titans trim their strong Michigan Normal team by the score of 39 to 30 on February 1. At half-time the Red and White were leading by only one point, 15 to 14.

The hustling Hurons pulled into the lead shortly after the start of the second half. After the score see-sawed back and forth several times, the Red and White finally managed to pile up a margin substantial enough to carry them through to victory. Bob Calihan again led scorers of both teams with thirteen points.

36 XAVIER 31

Detroit chalked up its eleventh victory of the season by defeating Xavier University at Detroit on February 3, 36 to 31.

The Titans were held scoreless and trailed 5 to 0 at the end of eight minutes of play when Bob Calihan scored Detroit's first point. The Titan offense began to click at that point and by half-time the Titans were leading 12 to 11. Thereafter Detroit never trailed, but the Ohioans kept within striking distance until Calihan put on a brilliant spurt in counting two baskets and a free throw in the last two minutes of play.

70 TORONTO 34

The highest total ever recorded by a Titan quintet was reached at Naval Armory on February 10 when the Red and White defeated Toronto 70 to 34.

BIRINGER

O'BRIEN

The thirteen players used by Coach Lloyd Brazil all broke into the scoring column, led by Bob Calihan with nineteen points. Toronto had a momentary lead early in the game over the Detroit reserves, but by half-time the Titans had pulled ahead 29 to 13. Charley O'Brien, alternating at the center position with Calihan, counted up ten points and gave a fine exhibition of ballhandling.

29 MARQUETTE 25

The Red and White cage team handed Marquette its first defeat on their home court in sixteen games when they topped the Hilltoppers 29 to 25 on February 12 at Milwaukee. Captain Jack Piana carried off scoring honors with ten points.

By half-time the Titans had forged ahead 13 to 10. The Hilltoppers pulled away to an 18 to 17 lead in the second half, lost it when Piana counted two in short order, and then rallied to tie the count at 22-all. Johnny Gedda clinched the game for Detroit with a field goal in the dying minutes.

49 MICHIGAN NORMAL 36

The Detroit quintet marked up their second victory of the season over Michigan Normal, 49 to 36, in a rough game at Naval Armory on February 17. Players from both teams left the game via the personal foul route as the Titans were sparked to victory by the fine offensive play of Captain Jack Piana and Bob Calihan.

Although Brazil started his second team, it was the regulars who finally gave the Titans the lead to which they held until the end of the game.

32 TOLEDO 38

Titan center Bob Calihan smashed his own all-time Titan individual scoring record of 267 points when he collected thirteen points at the expense of Toledo at Naval Armory on February 22. His efforts went for naught, however, as Toledo defeated the Titans 38 to 32.

The game was another roughhouse affair, with many fouls being called on both teams. Better success on free throws gave Rockets their margin of victory.

41 XAVIER 46

In a second contest with Xavier the Titans suffered a defeat, 46 to 41, playing at Cincinnati on February 24. The game evened the home-and-home series at one victory apiece.

Outstanding performer of the evening was Red and White center Bob Calihan, who tallied eighteen points, almost half of the Titan total. Unusually good floor games were turned in by Captain Jack Piana, Charley Buchholz, and Frank O'Donnell.

Edmund J. Barbour placed his Freshman basketball team in the Highland Park Recreation League, in addition to playing preliminary games to the Varsity tilts. The Frosh displayed exceptional talent, losing out to Briggs' quintet in the finals.

Lucius Ryans, lanky center, and Joseph C. Jarrett paced the Titans in all their games. Ryans was a constant leader in scoring and finished the season with a 100-point margin over his closest competitor. Ryans also showed exceptionally well on defense. Acclaimed as the best ball-handler since the days of Larry Bleach, Jarrett was the guiding force behind most of the Detroit victories. Jarrett along with James W. O'Donnell formed a guard combination hailed as one of the best seen in a long time.

COEDS CHECK OVER THEIR FENCING PARAPHERNALIA

WINTER

Basketball again topped the winter intramural card this year as twenty-two teams registered with intramural head Barbour. Two loops were formed, a Monday night league at the University of Detroit High School gymnasium, and a Thursday night league at the McMichael Intermediate School gym.

The list of teams for the U. of D. High loop was as follows: Delta Buffa, Blood and Thunder, Masonites, Outcasts, Spahs, Tower Club, Swishers, Negative Ones, Pooshwunkies No. 1, and Mohawks.

For competition in the Thursday night McMichael league the following were listed: Alpha Kappa Psi, Magi, Wizards, Champs, Pooshwunkies No. 2, FF 39, Dukes, Micks, Lemons and Coal Miners.

Led by Coach Tim Slovisky, the Delta Buffas, two-time intramural basketball champions, won the championship of the Monday night league and then went on to overwhelm the Mohawks, Thursday night champions, for the uptown campus title. In the all-University championship game the Delta Buffas took the Juniors, titleholders on the downtown campus, in stride for their third successive championship.

Competition for the Lynch Trophy, given to the winning team in the Night Commerce and Finance Bowling League, was keen again this year with ten teams entered. Fifty students participated in the twenty-seven night schedule. The Managers finished the season on top with a comfortable five-game lead on the Lawyers and Financiers, who were tied for second place. Bunched behind, in a three-way deadlock for fourth place, were the Cost Accountants, Bankers and Economists. Following them came the C.P.A.'s, Accountants, Auditors and Brokers in that order.

The team high three-game award went to the Financiers, who hung up a 2.369 series. An 874 count for a single game proved high enough for the Lawyers to take honors in that division. Joseph B. Pfister's 608 three-game series brought him an award, as did a 236 singles score rolled by Eugene M. Bauer. Highest individual average was maintained by league president Darrell F. Burton, with 162. He was followed by Bauer with 159.5 and Pfister with 159.3.

Teams from the league again competed in the annual C. Y. O. tournament and in addition broadened the scope of their activities to include participation in the American Bowling Congress, held this spring at the Fair Grounds Coliseum, Detroit. Norbert T. Madison served as secretary of the league.

Five tournaments highlighted the intramural handball season. They were student singles and doubles, faculty singles and doubles and alumni doubles. Including the entrants in the various tournaments, over two hundred students found a source of winter recreation in this sport.

For the third successive year, Bill Schauer and Alex Chesney were crowned student doubles champions. To this title they added the University championship by defeating faculty titleholders Lloyd Brazil and Eddie Barbour. Runners-up to Schauer and Chesney were Jack McDermott and Charley Pawlukiewicz. Ernie White and Bob Stich tied with Jack Carron and Fred Foerg for third place.

A new champion ascended the singles throne when McDermott unseated defending two-time champion Alex Chesney. On his way to the title McDermott defeated Schauer and White, who finished second and third, respectively. Chesney was beaten by newcomer Vince Banonis in the semi-final round. Banonis finished fourth, behind Schauer and White.

Because of increasing alumni interest in handball, a tournament was held to determine the outstanding doubles combination. George Brescoll and Jack Haganah emerged victorious over thirty-two other teams.

In the final tournament of the season, McDermott became the first student in five years to win the all-University championship when he nosed out "Bud" Boeringer, faculty singles champ.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL IN THE JEFFERSON CAMPUS GYM

COED BASKETBALL TEAM

Reintroduction of the swimming and diving meet after a lapse of several years heightened students' interest in intramural swimming during the past winter season. The aquatic carnival was held on the last night of the swimming season. A group representing the Tower Club took the team trophy.

With ever-increasing popularity, the annual table-tennis tournament for male students drew another large entry this year. Paul Bruce won the champion-ship by defeating Bob Rutt in the finals. One of the closest matches in tourney was the semi-final conflict between Bruce and Jack Lance, going to five games for a decision.

Under the direction of Casimere Brovarney, football captain-elect, intramural basketball drew much coed interest. Weekly practice sessions, featured by inter-squad contests, were held weekly at the Hally school. In addition, six outside games were played, including contests with St. Mary's of Redford, St. Rita, St. James of Ferndale and Gesu Sodality sextets. Competing on the Titan squad were Helen Lambe, Pat LaLiberte, Virginia Partlan, Pauline Olde, Joyce Stommel, Frances Bayne and Mary Barone.

Joyce Stommel successfully defended her coed ping-pong title against Alice Parker in a tournament that drew a large entry.

Coed fencing as an intramural activity also proved popular during the winter months. Under the tutelage of members of the varsity fencing squad, coeds learned the rudiments of the art. The newly invented goal-hi also caught on and drew heavy play.

HANDBALL BOXING TRACK

Boxing climbed to greater prominence than it had hitherto ever known at the University of Detroit this year.

Led by Ted Pavelec, 1939 class C heavyweight champion who moved up to class B, and Robert Burke, class C light heavy and a seasoned veteran of the amateur ring with fourteen bouts behind him, the Titan squad kept its colors flying right through to the C. Y. O. finals at Olympia on April 19. Burke was the sole Titan finalist, the others having lost close bouts in the preliminaries.

Other members of the squad who entered the tournament were James Spalding, Ernest Ferstle, Dan Sebastian, John Maczko, Paul Teliskey, Ronald Gerber, and Frank Kern.

University of Detroit set a precedent for every other college in the country this year by staging the first intercollegiate handball match ever to be held in the United States on April 13 in the U. of D. field house where they defeated Assumption College of Windsor 15 to 8.

Coached by R. L. "Duke" Kiefer, Titan handball director and original promoter of intercollegiate matches, the Red and White squad was selected from among the winners of the University Student Tournament held in February. Members of the team included Captain Jack McDermott, University champion, Bill Schauer, Tim Slovisky, Fred Foerg, Charles Pawlukiewicz, Ernest White, John Nuber, and Bob Burke.

University of Detroit track team consisted of a single mile relay team that confined its activities to one contest, the annual Michigan State Track and Field Meet at East Lansing on May 17.

Coached by Michael H. "Dad" Butler, the Titan thinclads selected to compete in this meet were Bill Kelly, Al Ghesquiere, Paul McErlean, and Bob Hengen. They performed creditably.

FENCING

University of Detroit's fencing team faced a tough ten-game schedule with a five-man squad composed of Captain Walter Roney; Al Roney, serving his fourth year; Alex Klier, Roger Weining and William King.

The Titan fencers opened their schedule on January 13 at Notre Dame and dropped a close meet to the Irish, losing the foil and epee bouts by one point. The bout score registered 11-6 for the Irish as did the 62-56 total point score. Western Reserve of Cleveland upset the Red and White foilsmen in their meet on February 3 and emerged with 62 points to the Titan's 56, while taking nine bouts to seven.

Playing two teams in one day, Ohio State University and Kenyon College, the Titan fencers dropped the first and called the second a tie. The Buckeyes stopped Detroit's offense and handed the team a 12-5 defeat. Detroit made a fine showing against Case University's ten-man squad, and chalked up a 13-13 tie when the twenty-seventh bout was deadlocked. The Titans gained more points, however, as the total showed 89-85 in their favor.

The Red and White guardsmen, playing their second double header of the season, downed Western Reserve, to even the score, and Oberlin College. Reserve fell by a 9-7 count, while the Titans defeated Oberlin 10-7. On March 9 the Titan foilsmen met the Dynamos of Lawrence Tech and bowed by the close score of 63-58. The Titans won seven bouts while losing nine.

Fencing Wayne University on March 15, Detroit suffered its fifth loss of the season by a bout score of 10-7, registering 48 points to the Tartars' 58. The final game of the season, scheduled with Lawrence Tech, was canceled when members of both teams reported ill.

The promising group of yearlings was captained by Charles L. Sinclair, Commerce freshman; the other frosh foilsmen were: George C. Fecteau, Engineering; Lyman B. Faust and Ward E. McDermott, Commerce.

ACTION IN THE FROSH-LAWRENCE TECH ENCOUNTER

TENNIS

Left to Right: KELLEY, CUROTT, CAUMARTIN. COLDSBURY, KRONNER, HALFORD

The call for tennis players was answered this year by twenty candidates, of whom six were selected to make up the squad. They included veterans Bill Goldsbury, Bill Kronner, Fred Caumartin and Jim Kelley, and members of last year's freshman squad John Collins and Bill Curott. The return of Kelley, captain of the 1938 team, greatly bolstered the squad.

Playing without a coach this year, the Red and White racquet wielders were placed under the guidance of student manager Gregory Halford.

The Titans dropped the opening match on April 27 to Michigan State Normal by a 6 to 3 count. Kelley led the Titan point-getters when he came back strong after dropping his first set to take the next two and win his match.

On May 2 the Titans played host to the John Carroll netters. Begun under threatening weather conditions, the match had to be discontinued after the fourth singles encounter with the Titans leading 3 to 1. Goldsbury, Kronner and Caumartin won their matches before rain halted hostilities.

The Titans scored a most impressive victory on May 4 against Niagara University, sweeping every match to take a 6 to 0 victory. Kelley, Kronner, and Caumartin won love sets in the singles, and Goldsbury and Kelley repeated the feat in the doubles.

Ohio University fell before the Red and White 5 to 2 at Detroit on May 10. Success by Caumartin and Kelley in the singles matches and the team of Caumartin and Kronner in the doubles paved the way for the Titan victory.

On May 14 at Ypsilanti, the Titans were defeated for the second time by Michigan State Normal, 4 to 3. Jim Kelley defeated Victor Mastramarco, Normal ace, 7-9, 6-1, 6-3.

The Titan tennis team reached its greatest heights on May 20 when it downed Toledo, 7 to 0 at Detroit. Bill Goldsbury won his singles match, 6-0, 6-3, while Jim Kelley registered a scintillating 6-0, 6-1 win. The two teamed to win their doubles match 6-0, 6-1.

GOLF

Led by veterans Bob Babbish, captain and former Western Amateur title-holder, and Augie Fogoros, the Red and White linksmen undertook a golf schedule that pitted them against the best in the middle west. Rounding out Coach William Kelly Joyce's squad were newcomers Harold Brodie, Jack Davidson, and Chuck Gamber.

Inclement weather caused postponement of the Titans' initial encounter with Purdue. Opening the season on April 13 against Indiana the Titans dropped a closely contested match 9½ to 8½. Babbish was low medalist with a card of 75.

On April 19 the Titans journeyed to the University of Illinois and won 10 to 8 at the Urbana Country Club. On the following day, however, Northwestern University inflicted a defeat on the Red and White at the Kildeer Country Club, Evanston. The Purple totaled 12½ points to the Titans' 5½.

Evanston. The Purple totaled 12½ points to the Titans' 5½.

Returning home the Red and White handed a decisive defeat to Michigan State Normal, 16½ to 1½, at the Red Run Country Club on April 27. Babbish had an amazing three under par 69 for low medalist honors.

The Titan golfers whitewashed their University of Cincinnati rivals 15 to 3, taking all matches except one tie, as Babbish, Davidson, and Brodie shared medal honors with cards of 73.

The Titans dropped a 10 to 8 decision to the Dayton University golfers. A slight margin gained in the singles matches by Babbish and Fogoros was dispelled by Dayton success in the best ball matches.

The Titan golfers showed fine form in defeating Western State at Red Run on May 10, 111/2 to 61/2. Augie Fogoros had a 72 for low medalist honors.

Detroit closed their season by losing to Notre Dame, 11½ to 6½ at Red Run on May 18. Bob Babbish closed his career as a Titan golfer with a sub-par 71.

SPRING INTRAMURALS

A CLOSE ONE AT FIRST BASE

Regulation baseball made the greatest gain in intramural activities at the University of Detroit this year. Over one hundred men, forming eight teams, sought places in the hardball loop. The eight teams composing the loop were Arcs, Bears, Big 10, Coal Miners, FF 39, Legal Eagles, Pooshwunkies, and Spaniards. This interest in intramural ball led to plans for Varsity baseball next year.

Nineteen teams spread over three leagues characterized this year's softball. Two of the leagues played at 12:20 and the third at 2:00 o'clock. The afternoon league was composed of six teams and the noon leagues of six and seven teams each. The thirteen teams playing in the noon league were Aces, Deltas, Dynamos, FF 39, Heels, Legal Eagles, Monogram Club, Micks, Negative Ones, Pooshwumkies, Thunders, Towers, Tigers, and Titan Engineers. The Big 10, Cats, Dukes, Lemons, Romeos, Coeds and Wunkpooshies made up the afternoon loop.

Inclement weather caused the postponement of some of the earlier games. This resulted in rather crowded schedules at the end of the season. The noon leagues were allowed one half hour. This restriction was enforced so that the participants would not be late for afternoon classes. The afternoon league played for seven innings since they were not hampered by impending classes.

The coeds engaged in six activities, softball, tennis, golf, archery, goal-hi, and riding. The managers appointed by the Women's Intramural Association were Helen Lambe, softball; Marianne Sabow, tennis; Evelyn Rivest, golf; June Gunther, archery; Alice Blackshaw, goal-hi; and Ann Kennady, riding.

Bob Babbish, member of the golf team and former Western Amateur Champion, coached the coeds in golf, while Bill Goldsbury, tennis captain, coached those interested in tennis.

The intramural track meet between Arts, Commerce and Engineering, revived after a lapse of three years on May 14, saw Bob Hengen, Engineering Sophomore, take five firsts in nine events to accumulate 38 points.

PERFECT COMPANION to your recreational mood . . . with Style and Power and Zip to spare . . . Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 Convertible Coupe! It's made for flight and looks the part, with pace as flexible as your fancy. (Twelve thrifty cylinders; low, rakish lines!) It cradles you in comfort though you're off with the sun and drive until dusk. (Chair high seats; low center of gravity!) It offers generous space for sports equipment, luggage, spare tire. (Rear deck!) It's ready and willing for anything—a swift shower-dodging dash from the golf course, a fast fair-weather spin to the beach. (Automatic mechanism for raising or lowering the smart sporting top—pull a knob and the open sky's above you!) Truly, no car offers so much that's within the limits of so many budgets. Hitch your play-day plans to the Lincoln-Zephyr V-12 Convertible Coupe!

As Student Counselor, Rev. Joseph A. Foley, S.J., assists undergraduates by taking a personal interest in their problems.

Acting librarian Rev. Marshall L. Lochbiler, S.J., is assisted by Dorris M. Berning of the McNichols campus, and by Catherine E. Vogt, Dentistry librarian, and Eileen Harrigan, Law librarian on the Jefferson Avenue campus.

Florence E. Donohue, registrar, receives all credentials and applications for admission to the University and is in charge of permanent scholastic records. Thomas F. Davis, bursar, is assisted by Laura M. Drew, in charge of the downtown campus.

Only one change was recorded during the past year in the College of Arts and Sciences. In accordance with the requirements of the American Chemical Society, Arts students must now complete a minimum of forty hours of chemistry to attain a major in that subject.

Integration of the day and evening divisions of the College of Commerce and Finance was furthered by the addition of six new faculty members. By teaching in both divisions of the college, these men provided identical basic courses for every student whether he attends day or evening classes. Rev. Henry J. Wirtenberger, S.J., who recently completed three years of study at the London School of Economics, conducted a course in the Economics of Consumption. In the Evening division Dr. Jose E. Espinosa taught a practical course in Commercial Spanish. Courses in principles of Real Estate and Insurance were also inaugurated.

Changes in the Mathematics schedule in an attempt to coordinate curricula with the trend of changing conditions in the profession, opening of two new laboratories, and participation in the Civil Aeronautics Authority flight training program marked the past year in the College of Engineering.

Charles G. Duncombe, professor of Chemical Engineering equipped a new laboratory with benches for individual student work. Harry O. Warner, professor of Electrical Engineering, prepared a Calibration laboratory which will be used to maintain the accuracy of regular equipment.

After a lapse of seven years the School of Law resumed publication of its quarterly, The University of Detroit Law Journal.

A Gross Anatomy laboratory was added to the completely modern School of Dentistry.

Making Things for One Another

We've all heard the old one about the shoemaker who was so busy making and mending shoes for the neighbors that he didn't have time to mend his own family's shoes. His output was limited not only by time, but also by old-fashioned methods and tools.

Contrast his day with ours. Today the shoemaker's children are not only well-shod, but they ride in the family automobile with mother and dad; they go to the movies; they listen to the radio . . . in fact, they have the benefits that children everywhere deserve.

That's because we have called in new forces to help us make things for one another to use . . . things that make life richer, fuller, more worth living.

If we are to continue to enjoy these things, we must have research to assure maintenance of quality and continued improvements; engineering to make practicable and workable the results of research; ample production to meet public demand; and organization to coordinate all these factors to the interests of the customer.

Only in that way can we all continue to earn more—and to have more.

LEAGUE SPRING DINNER DANCE: League members returned to Hotel Book Cadillac Casino. April 25, for their Spring Dinner Dance. Jack Meyer's orchestra played danceable music and "Bunny" Buddy Lewis, star of the Iceolite review, jumped over barrels and through hoops. Chairman Mary Ellen O'Connell, Arts senior, was assisted by Bette Abbott and Catherine F. Duncan, Arts juniors, Janet Crawford, Commerce sophomore, Madge D. Martin, Commerce senior, and Mary Lou Madden, Arts sophomore.

PRE-MED BALL: Tilting to the lilting melodies of Tommy Marvin, popular local maestro, approximately 125 carefree couples made the Pre-Med Ball a thing of beauty and a joy forever. Time—April 26, place—Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Statler. Maroon and white, colors of Omega Beta Pi, pre-medical fraternity, themed decorations. Serving as general chairman was Arthur E. Schultz, Arts senior, Chaperones were: Rev. John A. Ryan, S.J., and Mr. and Mrs. Hartwig A. Schuyten.

MAY—JUNE

DENTISTRY JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET: Continuing a tradition almost as old as the College itself, Dentistry Juniors held a farewell dinner for members of the college's graduating class at the Stockholm, May 1. Representatives from both classes addressed the assembly in an exchange of words of wisdom and encouragement. Junior Henry J. Herpel served as general chairman.

NIGHT COMMERCE JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET: For the twenty-second consecutive time, William B. O'Regan, director of the Evening Commerce School, served as toastmaster of the Night School Junior-Senior Banquet. Juniors were hosts to seniors at the Banquet May 2 in the Intercollegiate Room of the Penobscot Building. Speakers included: the Very Rev. Charles H. Cloud, S.J., University president; Rev. John W. Bieri, S.J., Commerce regent; Lloyd E. Fitzgerald, Commerce dean; Rev. Henry Wirtenberger, S.J., professor of economics; Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., Dean of Men; John S. Bugas, director of the Detroit office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Cochairmen were Stephen L. Kish and Robert J. Temple.

the breakfast which followed a Night Commerce and Law Sodality mass in St. Catherine's Chapel. William G. McLinden, Night Commerce junior, chairmanned the breakfast meeting, site of which was the Bungalow Restaurant. William B. O'Regan, assistant dean of the Commerce college served as toastmaster. Rev. John W. Bieri, S. J., regent of the Law and Commerce colleges, and director of the Sodalities addressed the group.

TOWER BALL: The fifth annual Tower Ball climaxed the fraternity-sorority sponsored University social season, May 10. Lowry Clark's orchestra contributed music in successful "sweet swing" style in Hotel Statler's Banquet Room. Sponsored by Comoro, Arts sorority, and by engineering fraternities Chi Sigma Phi, Kappa Sigma Delta, and Tuyere, the Ball was co-chairmanned by Catherine F. Duncan, Arts junior, and John D. Moon, Engineering freshman.

MOTHER'S DAY TEA: Women's League members presented their mothers with corsages at the Mother's Day Tea, May 12. Refreshments followed a special program presented in the Music Room. Mary E. Avendt, Arts, headed a committee composed entirely of seniors; decorations, Blanche Collins, Arts, and Dorothy V. Rhodes, Commerce; refreshments. Genevieve Crowley and Mary Lou Theisen, Arts; Reception, Elynor D. Koelz and Mary Ellen Nolan, Commerce.

MONOGRAM CLUB DANCE: First social activity of the newly reorganized Monogram Club was a music-box dance in Gesu Hall, May 17. Club president and football captain-elect Casimere B. Brovarney, Commerce junior, acted as chairman.

SWEATER SWING: Informality reigned over Phi Gamma Nu's Sweater Swing, May 17 at Glenn Oaks Country Club. Sorority president Mary Ellen Nolan presented Madge D. Martin, senior, with the Phi Gamma Nu Award given annually to the commerce coed with the highest four-year scholastic average. Elise M. Partlan, Commerce junior, was chairman.

OUT-OF-TOWN SMOKER: Under the sponsorship, patronage, and stewardship of Rev. Thomas D. Ewing, S.J., dean of men, a smoker for out-of-town students was held May 17 in the Union Room.

Games and refreshments were the order of an evening planned to further acquaint out-of-town students with each other.

MAY HOP: Feature recordings of the nation's top orchestras furnished music for the first edition of The May Hop, sponsored by the Night Commerce College. Ticket purchasers chose transcribed music instead of the personal appearance of a local orchestra on the basis that quality is better than quantity. The dance, first social event of its kind in the social history of the Night School, was held at Bonnie Brook Golf and Country Club, May 18. Joseph E. Bauser, junior, and Enos J. Carse, freshman, were co-chairmen.

ALL-CITY SODALITY BREAKFAST: Honoring the Queen of the May with appropriate coronation ceremonies, a city-wide Sodality Communion and Breakfast was sponsored by the University Sodality Council at the University of Detroit High School May 19. Crowning of the statue of the Blessed Virgin by Catherine F. Boyle, Arts freshman, followed the Mass at which thirty candidates were received into the Sodality. Principal speaker at the breakfast was retreatmaster and missionary Rev. Charles Connor, S.J.

ART CLUB SPRING MUSICALE: Opening the activities which were to close their season, members of the University Art Club held a faculty tea and musicale in the Music Room May 19. Occasion of the event was a preview of an exhibit of Oriental Art arranged for by the Club under the chairmanship of George P. Head.

PLAYERS' DINNER DANCE: A two-act presentation entitled "Annual Dinner Dance" rang down the curtain on University Players' activities. The effort was presented at Northwood Inn under the direction of president August J. Hofweber, Engineering senior, May 27. At the intermission between the dining and dancing acts achievement awards were presented several players and honorary membership in the organization was conferred upon Rev. John McEvoy, moderator of the group, and Dean Constance T. Maier.

SIGMA RHO TAU BANQUET: Sigma Rho Tau's stump speakers stamped "Finis" in their journal of activities for the year with a closed Banquet at Adler's Restaurant, May 28. Gavel-wielder and chairman of the affair which was featured by election of officers for next year was retiring prexy Richard F. Brennan, Engineering junior. Guest of honor of the Society was Francis J. Linsenmeyer, departmental director of Mechanical Engineering.

EASTWOOD NIGHT: Personable Ted Weems and his band of specialists dispelled examination worries for 1000 emancipated students at Eastwood Park, May 31. Perry Como, Elmo Tanner, Red Ingle, Ormond Downs, beautiful Marvel Maxwell, and Weems' orchestra provided entertainment surpassing that of any University social event. Co-sponsored by League and Union, Marge J. Franklin and Daniel Chieger, Engineering senior were chairmen.

"SERVED WHEREVER QUALITY COUNTS"

LIFE of material gain is of value only as it forms the foundation for broader usefulness and as there is added to it a lift toward what is loftier and better. Ordinarily such improvement can be made afresh from what is round about us, but real and lasting culture comes fuller and faster when we draw on those stores of garnered knowledge, upon the treasure houses of literature, science and art, which have accumulated from human experience in our new world. In their turn these new Universities have drawn upon ancient abodes of wisdom in the Old World until there is available to the student of culture the whole span of human experience and understanding. Such a University and its student life is described in this Yearbook, and while it is essential to look ahead to new experiment and new discovery, it is mere folly to fail to acknowledge and profit by the greater knowledge of the past. It is for us of the New World to sit at the feet of Gamaliel of the Old, and then. if we have the right talents, we can show that Paul in his turn can become the teacher as well as the scholar.

DETROIT - GRAND RAPIDS - TOLEDO

Tribute to . . . A GREAT INSTITUTION

UNIVERSITY of Detroit occupies a place of respect and affection in the heart of this community. It has earned that place by longcontinued service to the highest ideals of education. To the teaching that upholds these standards, and to the splendid student body that has the opportunity to profit by them, let us offer on this completion of another successful U. of D. year, our sincere best wishes.

46 WESTERN ONTARIO 45

In their return game with Western Ontario the Titans were able to nose out their Canadian rivals 46 to 45. The game was played at London, Ontario, on February 27.

Playing without the services of five veterans, who were lost to the squad for the remainder of the season, the Titans barely kept ahead of the team that they defeated handily earlier in the season. Joe Krol of the Mustangs led all scorers with twenty points, followed by Titan Charley O'Brien with seventeen.

TOLEDO 48

Noticeably short of reserve material, the Red and White basketball team was unable to continue a thrilling last minute rally against Toledo at Naval Armory on March 2 and had to be content with the short end of a 48 to 39 score.

Toledo jumped into a nine-point lead before Detroit could score and stayed ahead until the end of the game. A fourth period Titan rally brought the Red and White within five points of their Ohio rivals, but two quick Toledo baskets clinched the game.

40 NOTRE DAME 47

In keeping with a tradition of several years' standing the Irish of Notre Dame defeated the Titans in the final game of the season at Naval Armory on March 9 by a 47 to 40 score.

The Titans snatched the lead at the start and held on until the close of the first half, when Notre Dame sneaked ahead, 22 to 21. Baskets by Charley Buchholz and Johnny Biringer put the Titans back into the lead early in the second stanza, but the Irish went back in front and stayed there until the game's end.
